You Do Not Know

Where to Invest?

Let us tell you. There should be no difficulty about a matter of this kind if you take the trouble to exercise ordinary care and common sense. You would not invest in an old decaying city whose pulse is almost ceased to beat, would you? No, you would put your money into a place where there is life and hope.

Well! Why Don't You Try the West?

We suggest the west, because the west is the future. Here are the cities of the future, where hamlets existed a few years ago. Here are the towns which possess both sea and rail transportation facilities. Here are the towns whose strategic positions ensure them becoming large commercial distributing centres in the near future. Here is Alberni, the future Liverpool of Canada.

A Seaport Town of no Small Renown

So situated at the head of Alberni Canal in the west coast of Vancouver Island, its importance as a seaport town cannot be exaggerated, or too strongly emphasized. This canal opens itself out into the Pacific Ocean, after its landlocked course from Alberni, extending for a distance of 26 miles. Its water is of great depth, permitting of safe navigation to the largest vessels plying the west coast, being one of the finest harbours in the world. An investment in a place possessed of such enviable features.

Must Surely be one of the Best!

Yes! Without a shadow of a doubt it is one of the best! Don't be asleep to these great chances, which do not come so often. Remember, Alberni is at present served by one great transcontinental railway system, the Canadian Pacific Railway, and by the end of the year the Canadian Northern will have completed a track into Alberni, then will come the dredging of Seymour Narrows, connecting the island with the mainland. Mail and passengers from the Orient and other routes via the Panama Canal, to be opened next year, will be landed at Alberni, and transported by rail to Vancouver, saving from eight to twenty-four hours to the present route.

ALBERNI therefore is where you should invest. Lots can be bought for $150, inside the town limits. Easy terms, 10% cash, 5% per month. Test it for yourself. Buy a lot today and help to develop the west.

THE SPIRIT OF DISCONTENT IS A SIGN OF THE PROGRESS ASTIR IN THE WORLD TODAY

The world wide spirit of unrest and discontent which is agitating the ranks of the toilers constitutes one of the most difficult and pressing problems of our times. Widely divergent views obtain as to the cause and remedies. In the pulpit, on the platform, and in the press the subject has been treated from many standpoints. What astonishes the onlooker most is the undue emphasis laid on the spirit of discontent that prevails. It seems to be regarded as something novel that the masses of the people no longer accept the traditional interpretation of St. Paul's counsel to the Philippians "I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." And yet, if one reflects, this dissatisfaction with present conditions is the locomotive on which all social, moral and political reformers rely for progress. From time immemorial men have provoked unrest and discontent and employed it as a lever for the redress of wrongs. But throughout this whole discussion there is an undertone of surprise and a feeling of vague apprehension because the masses of the people, without any apparent lead from the governing classes or political leaders are simmering with revolt and challenging old-established theories.

Immediately the symptoms appear learned economists proceed to examine the social rash as a chemist would a new bacillus. They theorize and dogmatize, but the patient is not satisfied to be treated as a doctor would treat an obscure disease. The patient in this case claims to know more about his malady than the learned men who surround the dissecting table or pore over weighty tomes in search of precedents and remedies. In short, he denies to any class of men, however learned in their own conceit, the right to supply remedies without reference to his own desires. It is this phase of the labor unrest that causes astonishment. The workingman is discontented and in a state of revolt not only because of his condition, but also by reason of the fact that under existing party systems of government he may have the power to vote on legislation, but has no power to initiate it. Every avenue to the seat of power is blocked by the governing classes.

The popular delusion that a governing class cannot exist in democratic countries has been exploded. The fight in the United States is the revolt of the people against class privileges and arrogant rule. It is a repetition of the old struggle of Cromwell against Charles, of the people against the barons. On every side one hears appeals to authority based on class rule. Authority claims obedience and respect when it springs not from a self-centred class, but from the whole people. Government is divinely ordered when it draws its inspiration and life from the whole community, recognizing all the governed as active partners in the responsibility that gives it birth. Subordination to authority has been too long preached by the few to the many. There is a revolt against the political idolatry that substitutes the worship of the golden calf for the gospel of equality and liberty.

Happy the statesman, the party, or the nation that recognizes in this universal unrest the voice of Truth calling men back to a healthy and commendable quality when identified with the legitimate and progressive desires of the great bulk of humanity. Throughout the world it is identified today with a growing demand for a fuller measure of self government as opposed to class rule.—Toronto Globe.

BANK OF MONTREAL ADDS TO CAPITAL

The shareholders of the Bank of Montreal have authorized the increase in authorized capital to $25,000,000. When the recent issue of $1,600,000 is fully paid up in August the capital will stand at $16,000,000, so that the authorization asked for means the addition of $9,000,000 to authorized capital.

A Modern Force in Business

ADVERTISING has established a new order of things in commerce. It has become a mighty power in business progress; a complex yet comprehensible transmitter of many parts for the distribution and selling of merchandise and service.

Its function is fivefold:

To enlighten or educate—to create new wants or to satisfy old ones—to protect and foster legitimate enterprise—to establish a medium of understanding between buyer and seller as a basis for mutual profit and advantage—to prescribe an economical price and the maintenance of a fixed standard of quality.

None know better than the buying public how well these functions have been fulfilled.

Modern advertising has given us an insight into various manufacturing processes. The producer has taken us, the consumers, into his confidence and told us just how his mince meat, his flour, his clothing, etc., is made. We know why certain things should or should not be. Advertising has told us—broadened our understanding and guided our judgment.

Modern advertising has enabled us to unlock the treasure house of the world's divinest melodies through the medium of the player-piano. The motor car has lengthened the business day and brought the fragrant countryside to our door. Men shave in comfort in ten minutes where they used to take twenty. A magic bottle provides us with cold drinks with the weather at 90 degrees or gives us a warm beverage when Jack Frost dips at 40 below.

Modern advertising has elevated the standard of business ethics. It protects the manufacturer from unscrupulous competition and the consumer from base imitation. It conserves trade—extends business—creates good will. It enables the corporation, the manufacturer or private individual on trial to take his case directly to the public, and to secure the public's judgment on his policy or character based purely upon their respective merits.

Modern advertising has opened up new opportunities to the oppressed and poor of far-off lands. It has turned an unceasing tide of immigration to new countries. It has developed nations, and made the name of the New World a promise of better things among the people of the Old.

All this advertising has done and will continue to do. It is the ever-increasing influence for the advancement of mankind—the most potent, indeed, of the many forces influencing human action.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any good advertising agency or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.
