B of M offers scholarships from $750 to $5,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five B.C. Grade 12 students will be awarded $750 scholarships this year under a new program announced by the Bank of Montreal.

The students will be selected by faculty members of the University of B.C. for scholarships in the study of pure sciences, humanities or social sciences.

Students successful in meeting the standard in the second, third and fourth years of university will receive annual awards of $1,500.

In Montreal, G. Arnold Hart, Bank of Montreal, said today that the seven-year scholarship will provide university training in arts and science for outstanding Canadian high school graduated in all 10 provinces.

First project to be announced by any Canadian organization for the observance of Canada's Centennial in 1967, the plan provides for 50 top high school graduates to enter university on B of M scholarships next autumn. The program will culminate in 1967, Canada's centennial year and 150 th anniversary of the establishment of the bank, Mr. Hart said, with the conferring of centennial awards on the top scientist and the top humanist.

To be known as "Bank of Motreal Canada Centennial Scholarships," the plan calls for 124 awards in all over the next seven years, ranging from $750 to $5,000.

The project is a highly competitive one, and all awards will be made entirely on merit, as determined by selection committees consisting of faculty members of universities from coast to coast. The bank will take no part whatever in the decisions.

The plan, which provides increasing benefits to a reducing number of participants, offers the most promising students a series of scholarships and fellowships in the pure sciences and in the humanities or the social sciences. Professional courses such as law, medicine and engineering are not included.

Scholarship students who are successful in meeting the requisite standards in the second, third and fourth university years will receive awards of $1,500 per annum, while those accepted for graduate study in 1964, 1965 and 1966 will receive awards of $3,000 per anum for study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

Then in 1967, Canada's cen-
