BRITISH COLUMBIA LACROSSE ASSOCIATION "BUSTED UP" WESTMINSTER WITHDRAWS

(Special to Daily News.)
Vancouver, July 24—The B.C. Lacrosse Association "busted up" last evening with a beautiful declaration in most unparliamentary language after a short meeting here last night. New Westminster withdrew from the league and left the meeting. The meeting came suddenly following the passing of a resolution by a majority vote. President H. Gowan is ordering next Saturday's game and the one scheduled for Sept. 14 to be changed and played at Vancouver instead of Westminster. This was violently opposed by Westminster. After the retirement of the Westminster delegates the Vancouver executive arranged with Con Jones and other officials to go east tomorrow night and secure seven or eight men for a new team. Several local men are available and a second Vancouver team will be made up.

PASTORS IN SASKATOON SHOCKED

Saskatoon, July 23—While the sporting fraternity of the city is jubilant over the announcement that the city fathers would not interfere with the staging of the Burns-Rickard bout for the heavyweight championship of Canada on August 8, the local ministerial association are shocked, and are waging war against it being held. They have already taken steps to prevent it taking place, having sent a telegram to Premier Scott denouncing it in strong terms expressing their disapproval of the contest.

PROFIT SHARING SYSTEM

Tables issued by the London Board of Trade showing the progress of the profit-sharing system are of some interest at present when a body of public opinion is urging a wider acceptance of co-partnership principles as a means of checking industrial unrest. The tables are mainly based on cases which have been in the press, and a number of cases, most of small works, have not been noticed, the figures may be regarded as understating the extent of the operation of the system.

Since 1829, down to 1911, the number of live profit sharing schemes established has been 2. Of these 153 have ceased to exist; there were in 1911 three schemes as to which particulars could not be obtained, leaving in operation at June 30, 1911, the number of people employed in business in which profit sharing existed was at that date 84,777, of whom 24,420 were engaged at gas works. The average bonus in all the cases enumerated, including those which no bonus was paid, was in the proportion of 4.3 per cent. to the wages paid during the year 1910.

CITIZENS SUPPLY FAN AT CENTRAL

Many public spirited and good-hearted citizens yesterday phoned in to Acting-Chairman Kerr of the Telephone Committee, offering to subscribe the money for a fan purchase of which was vetoed by the Mayor on Monday night. So readily did the citizens come spontaneously forward with offers to subscribe in one, two, three, four and five dollar amounts towards the cost of the fan, that the amount needed (only a little over thirteen dollars, after all), was many times over-subscribed in a few minutes. The fan has now been ordered, and will be installed speedily.

"BEFORE THE END OF 1914" COLLINGWOOD SCHREIBER'S DATE G. T. P. COMPLETION

(Special to Daily News.)
Vancouver, July 24—Collingwood Schreiber, general construction engineer of Dominion government, and chief government engineer for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, reached here today, having just completed his inspection of the line to Fraser, 40 miles west of railhead at Tete Jaune Cache, which is fifty six miles beyond the summit of Yellowhead Pass.
"I have every confidence that the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to Prince Rupert will be finished and in operation before the end of 1914 and think it will be ready before that period but it will take some time to get the road bed in shape for traffic," said Schreiber.

Schreiber will be joined tomorrow by B. B. Kelliher, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific who left him at Tete Jaune Cache to proceed westward over the line to Fort George. Kelliher is coming out via Ashcroft. They leave here on Thursday for Prince Rupert and go inland to inspect the G.T.P. line as far as Aldermere, in the Bulkley Valley.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT WENT AND GOT COLD CHAMPAGNE FOR THE YOUNG OFFICERS

The happy spirits and splendid good fellowship which is being shown by the Duke of Connaught is responsible for some good anecdotes which are typical of the man. One of the best told of him happened during the coronation ceremonies in England last year. The Duke, who has spent a great deal of his time abroad, is not very well known by sight to the younger officers of the army. A very large number of the young officers of aristocratic families were on duty at the big coronation garden party and their duties resulted in their being kept out of the hall where in was being served refreshments. The day was very hot and a batch of young officers were standing around bemoaning their fate. A smart looking, soldierly man approached them and listened to their complaints concerning their very healthy thirst.
"Why," said he, "I think I might be able to manage two or three bottles of champagne."
This suited the soldiers down to the ground and the white-moustached, bronze-faced gentleman hurried off, returning shortly with his arms full of bottles of cold champagne. The thirsty ones slaked their thirst and the word was soon around among the others that one gentleman had the pull somewhere and could get all the wine he wanted. The gentleman in question was kept busy supplying the youths with their thirst slaker and one or two colonials did not hesitate to get in on it. The elderly gentleman was standing in the middle of the grateful crowd when an aide-de-camp appeared on the scene with the remark, accompanied by a salute, "Your Royal Highness' presence is requested by His Majesty." The soldiers around stood dumb-founded, and at once asked who he was. "The Duke of Connaught," was the reply. Consternation reigned until the Duke himself set them all at ease by taking care that the soldiers on duty were looked after during the rest of the day.

The Duke's favorite story, however, is told by himself. He had just returned from India and was taking a quiet walk in the park, thinking that no one would recognize him. Suddenly he was startled by a coster's voice close beside him.
"I say, Harthur, old cock, give us a match, will yer?" The match was handed to the coster, who, not in the least abashed, lit his pipe, and with a "Thanks Harthur," walked on.
