Francois Lake News

When the old ferry dock was demolished (it was in front of our store) about a dozen pilings were left. These were very dangerous as they were just underneath the surface of the water, and often outboard engines would catch on them and boats themselves would get hit. This week the department of highways men managed to remove them although it made a lot of work for they were in too solidly to pull out even with the crane. So dynamite was used as a last resource.

✦ ✦ ✦

The Anglican Sunday schools in this district combined on Sunday and had a gathering here at the hall grounds. First of all there were games and races for the children and also races for the grown-ups. Then at 5 o'clock Rev. John Frame gathered us all together in the shade of the trees for a service. Stanley Calder played the little portable organ for the hymn singing. Then food for supper was put on the long tables and everyone helped themselves—there were great bowls of delicious salads, quantities of sandwiches, sliced meats, pickles, cakes, cookies and pie, followed by ice cream, coffee and tea.

✦ ✦ ✦

The Kinsmen of Southbank sponsored a fish derby for Francois Lake on Sunday, starting at 8 a.m. and closing at 8 p.m. There was a weighing station here in our warehouse and another at Southbank. Abe Martens won first prize with his char which weighed 18 pounds eight ounces, and Everett Jeffrey came second with one weighing 16 pounds eight ounces. Stuart Welch won first prize with his trout weighing one pound, 10 ounces, and second with his other trout weighing one pound eight ounces.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	3 ♦	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♦

Caution paid off for South, declarer in today's hand, as he braced himself against the worst of all trump breaks. The bidding diagram, however, would appear to be at variance with the character sketch we drew of South in our opening remark, for caution did not seem to be his watchword here.

While the scientific touch is lacking in the auction, we have no criticism to make of his treatment. East's pre-emptive call prevented a completely relaxed bidding sequence and the slam appears to be a reasonable commitment.

The opening diamond lead was taken with the ace and declarer ruffed a diamond with the ace of hearts and returned a trump to the ten. If West wins the trick he can make no damaging return.

If he refuses the trick declarer ruffs his last diamond and returns to his hand with a spade, and then proceeds to drive out the king of trumps. When West chooses to take his king there is no lead he can make which will inflict pain upon the declarer. After drawing trumps declarer has the spade suit to run for more tricks than he needs.

The chosen line of play will succeed against any four-one trump break, or against a five-nothing break provided West holds all the trumps. If East has five hearts, which is most unlikely since he pre-empted in diamonds, there is no way to make the hand.
