Outstanding among married couples in national competition in the past year have been the very personable Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Sanders of Nashville, Tenn. Unhampered by a brood of five tender aged infants, Carol Sanders continues to retain her beauty and her talent and in Denver recently, partnered by her husband, carried off the Mixed Pair Championship against an impressive field. Just a year earlier, this couple gained the runner-up position in the National Open Pair Championship at Jackson, Miss.

Today's hand contributed heavily to their most recent triumph.

The bidding presents one or two points of interest. Mr. Sanders seated North, opened the bidding with a prepared call of one club. It was not his purpose to be fancy, but rather to leave himself plenty of room for a convenient rebid. Observe that if North opens the bidding with one heart he will find himself in an awkward position if partner responds with two of a minor.

After South's one spade bid was raised to two, she proceeded directly to game in spades without bothering to show the club support. Considering her excellent fit with partner's hand, Mrs. Sanders now had the equivalent of an opening bid, and she saw no reason to divulge any further information to the opponents.

The diamond opening was taken by dummy's ace and a low trump was led immediately. East ducked and declarer's king of spades held the trick. A high spade was continued which East took with the ace and attempted to cash the king of diamonds.

Mrs. Sanders ruffed, drew the last trump and then put through the queen of clubs. West played low and, despite the fact that four cards were outstanding in the suit, declarer went up with the ace and felled the king. Her reasoning was quite sound. If West held the king he could hardly refuse to cover because the bidding had not revealed anything to indicate that South had great length in clubs. West's failure to cover, therefore, indicated either that he lacked the king or that he held it in sufficient length to prevent capture. Declarer might therefore just as well put up the ace.

Following this line of thought she played the ace of clubs, dropping the king, and brought in 12 tricks, losing only to the ace of spades.
