Remember when . .

Chicago Black Hawks ended a 21-game non-winning streak with a 5-2 victory over Boston Bruins nine years ago tonight. The winless streak, which included three tie games, equalled the non-winning record of New York Rangers in 1944 as the longest in one season, but Rangers extended it to 25 straight by losing their first game of the following season. The Ranger string included four ties.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mr. Abel hates the situation in which he found himself on this deal. He was in a close contract, had a tough decision to make between two possible lines of play, and there was Mr. Champion on the other side of the table ready to pounce with the criticism if anything went wrong.

Mrs. Keen got off to her best opening lead, the six of spades. The queen came up on Mr. Abel's right and he won with the king.

Obviously, nine tricks would have to be taken before letting the defenders regain the lead, because if they got in they could cash four spad tricks to break the contract.

Mr. Abel could see three winners in the major suits. Now if he could win five tricks in either of the minors, plus the ace of the other minor, he would have the hand made.

Mr. Abel

The question was, which minor should he go after? He wished the decision were up to Mr. Champion. Finally he decided that diamonds were his best bet since only one honor was outstanding in that suit.

But to finesse against the king of diamonds, he had to get to the board. Playing it wide open he led a club and went up with the ace in dummy.

As you see he was on the right track, but on the ace of clubs Mr. Dale played the king. Mr. Abel could hardly believe his good fortune. He could not have wished for a better break. Now he didn't have to risk the diamond finesse at all.

Clearly the winning line of play was to get back to his hand twice with hearts and finesse twice against Mrs. Keen's jack of clubs. Thus he would win five clubs, two hearts, a spade and a diamond.

You know the rest. To Mr. Abel's consternation the first club finesse lost to Mr. Dale's jack and the defenders ended up with four spade tricks and a club for down one.

While Mr. Abel had been thinking early in the hand, Mr. Dale had not been idle. He had correctly figured that Mr. Abel was worried about the king of diamonds and he knew that card was right—for Mr. Abel, that is. He had to do something desperate to turn Mr. Abel away from the diamond suit.

Who could blame Mr. Abel for falling for this masterful bit of deception? Apparently nobody—because even Mr. Champion held his peace.

Vancouver high school Curling champions

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Gene Hewitt's Vancouver rink Saturday captured the B.C. High School Curling Championship, whipping through the provincial round-robin final without a defeat.

The Vancouver rink from King Edward High School will represent B.C. in the Canadian final next month at Noranda, Que.

Hewitt, 17, was making his first appearance in the provincial final. He scored a narrow 7-5 victory over defending champion John Munro of Salmon Arm in the second round then breezed through his final match to win the title.

In the opening round Hewitt rolled to a 5-0 lead in the early ends and coasted to a 10-7 victory over Ernie Strasden of Prince George. It was no contest in the final match as Hewitt trounced Len Archibald's Kimberley rink 11-3.

Salmon Arm opened with a 10-4 verdict over Kimberley. In the second round, Munro battled back from a 5-0 deficit to pull within one point of Hewitt.

The Vancouver skip clinched the victory with a perfect draw on his last shot of the match.

The shot cut out two Salmon Arm counters.

Prince George handed the dejected Salmon Arm rink its second loss in the final round, winning 11-6.

The B.C. High School Curling Association later accepted a Vancouver invitation to hold the 1961 finals and elected veteran curler Gar Taylor of Victoria as its president.
