Royal tour dry run next week

OTTAWA (CP)—A dry run of this summer's Royal Tour of Canada starts next week.

Esmond Butler, the handsome Canadian who became the first person from outside the United Kingdom to be called to the Buckingham Palace staff, will play the role of the Queen.

His escort will be Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, commissioner of the Royal Tour.

Mr. Butler, chosen just a year ago by the Queen as her assistant press secretary, arrives in Ottawa Sunday.

After talks Monday and Tuesday with Gen. Graham, he begins a whirlwind trip along the 12,000-mile route to be followed by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip on their six-week coast-to-coast visit.

10-DAY TOUR

It was learned today the dry run will take 10 days, after which Mr. Butler will return to London to advise the Queen of preparations that have been made and to receive any suggestions for changes.

A spokesman for the Royal Tour headquarters said there will not likely be an interim itinerary issued this week as expected earlier. Although changes in stopping places had been made since a preliminary itinerary was announced January 20, it now was expected there would be no new itinerary until a complete program could be issued, perhaps in mid-May.

During the dry run, Mr. Butler and Gen. Graham will visit most of the some 85 stopping places on the itinerary and discuss program plans with local and provincial Royal Tour committees.

Their objective, in part, will be to assure programs planned follow the tour themes of informality, of letting the public see their Monarch, and of making the tour as restful and interesting as possible for the royal party.

Mr. Butler is a 35-year-old former assistant to the secretary of Governor-General Massey. The Queen selected him for his present job when she visited Ottawa in 1957.

His football-player build and ambassador affability have made his own personality news. He is a native of Wawanesa, Man., and holds the rank of lieutenant-commander after Second World War service with the Canadian navy.

Purpose of his appointment was to help arrange last summer's visit of Princess Margaret to the Biritish Columbia centennial and this summer's tour after which his appointment is terminated.

Safety boat for industry said essential

TORONTO (CP)—A member of the British Columbia Workmen's Compensation Board said Monday industry should have a safe boat, manned and with the engine running, wherever workers may fall into the water.

Murray Clarke of the accident prevention department said the boat should be stable and unsinkable, "designed and equipped for the job with scramble nets and throwing lines and manned by a boatman who knows his craft."

He said industries appear to use craft "that are too small, needlessly fast, over-power them, overload them and handle them inadequately."

McNeil, Marineau roll twin honors

The men captured twin honors in both divisions of Mixed Five-pin bowling league play last Thursday night.

In A League, Russ McNeil of Checker Cabs came up with 308 and 793 for high single and three while in B League Clare Marineau of Greer and Brdiden rolled 260 and 671 for his single and three.

Olga Moss of Woodbutchers racked up 325 for women's high single of the evening while Agnes Hawryluk of Esquires tallied 707 for triple.

For the teams, Headpinners with 1241 were single winners and Frosty Locker took high triple with 3564.

In B League, Helen Sparkes of Universal won women's single with 267.

Taking women's high three was Mickie Cross of Chatham with 597.

Standard Oil with 1148 and Greer and Bridden with 3301 were team single and three winners.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

In recent columns we have discussed what you need to make a jump rebid when you are the opening bidder. I suggested that you should have seven playing tricks in your hand.

There are three principal situations in which such rebids usually occur. The first is where you open the bidding with one of a suit, partner does not raise, but bids a suit of his own at the one level, and you jump in your suit anyway. You should have seven playing tricks and a long suit of reasonable solidity.

The second case is where partner gives you an immediate single raise in your suit. You still need seven playing tricks to make a jump rebid in your suit, but here you feel more sure about the ability of your small trumps to win tricks.

Mr. Muzzy

You will probably be able to find the required number of tricks with lesser high card strength than you would have needed in the first situation.

The third sequence is where you bid one of a suit, partner responds with one of another suit and you want to give him a jump raise. Again you need seven playing tricks but here your long trumps assume great importance, especially if you have a singleton or a void suit.

Of course, even when your bidding is sound you have to play the cards right. Mr. Muzzy muffed an easy four spade contract today. The queen of hearts was opened and he won with the ace. He took two rounds of trumps, ending on the board. He realized, too late, the danger of a lead through his king of clubs.

He could take the finesse for the queen of diamonds either way so he led a low one from dummy and finessed the ten. Mr. Dale won with the queen and returned a heart. This put Mr. Abel in with the king and his return of the queen of clubs made sure of two tricks in that suit. Down one.

All that Mr. Muzzy had to do was to let Mr. Dale win the first trick with the queen of hearts. That would have made it impossible for Mr. Abel's hand to be reached in hearts or any other suit. After the diamonds were set up, a club from the closed hand could have been discarded on dummy's fourth diamond.
