FINES LEVIED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission said Wednesday residents of B.C. and the Yukon who fraudulently received $19,500 in benefits last year had fines amounting to $10,150 levied against them.

Fined $10,000 for tax evasion

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Retired businessman Allan S. Gentles was fined $10,000 or six months in jail today for willfully evading income tax payment on some $32,000.

Gentles, found guilty Jan. 18, was given two weeks to pay the maximum fine.

Following the sentencing, Gentles, former manager of Dominion Bridge Company, went on trial on five additional charges of alleged tax evasion between 1954 and 1948.

The earlier charge covered the years 1950-52.

Magistrate W. H. Campbell, in finding Gentles guilty, said he found some of the defendant's evidence unbelievable.

He did not believe, he said, that Gentles had passed on $82,000 in bonds as political payments in B.C. arising out of sale of British steel for the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.
