Collision kills two

CACHE CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Two men, one a Creston, B.C. lumberman, were killed and two others were injured in a grinding two-car head-on collision at the junction of the Trans-Canada and Cariboo highways near here.

RCMP would not release the names of the dead, but said both were riding in a car headed north. Dick Wiens and Steve Srazie, both of the Williams Lake district and riding in a car headed south, were in hospital at Ashcroft, B.C. They suffered undetermined injuries and were reported in fair condition.

Transport act

KELOWNA (CP)—Interior loggers were urged Saturday to attend Royal Commission hearings here June 27-28; because "only weight of numbers" will be recognized by the provincial government in the truckers' fight for amendment to the Commercial Transport Act.

Driver fined for using wrong plates

City RCMP are making a thorough check on persons who do not have British Columbia licence plates while residing or working in Prince Rupert.

Saturday in police court George Paul Wetheral, originally of Alberta, but now of 416 Eighth Avenue West, was fined $10 and costs or in default of payment sentenced to seven days in jail after he pleaded guilty before Deputy Magistrate R. A. McLean to a charge of operating a motor vehicle with foreign licence plates while employed here.

RCMP said that the maximum fine which could be imposed is $500.

Also in police court Saturday Wallace Forsythe of no fixed address was given a one year's suspended sentence and was ordered to post a $500 bond after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of having possession of an offensive weapon.

Police told the court that Forsythe was arrested June 17 after he had taken a knife from the Melrose Cafe and threatened a woman there.

Val Colatonio of Prince Rupert was fined $35 and costs or in default 10 days after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of exceeding the 20 miles per hour speed limit at the McClymont Park area.

LONDON (CP)—King Hussein of Jordan is going to try his hand at the new sport of go-kart racing. He has ordered eight of the miniature racers, at £165 each, from a Hertfordshire manufacturer.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mr. Abel flubbed his contract today because he timed it wrong. When he reached the point where it became apparent that his first line of play was not going to work, it was too late to try something else.

He won the opening spade lead with the ace, led a diamond and finessed dummy's queen. When this held he cashed the ace and king of trumps, then led his last diamond to the ace, returned a third diamond and ruffed it. He looked very sad when Mr. Dale failed to follow suit to the third diamond lead. Apparently he had counted on the suit breaking 3-3.

Now he went to dummy with the ace of clubs and ruffed another diamond in his hand. When he led the nine of spades Mr. Dale ducked and let his partner win with the ten. She cashed her queen of hearts, taking the last trump off the board and now Mr. Abel lost two clubs and another spade for a two-trick set.

Mr. Abel

"All I needed was a break in diamonds," he commented.

"All you needed was to time the hand right," Mr. Champion corrected him. "Just let Dale hold the first spade trick.

"Then I win the second spade and ruff a spade," said Mr. Abel.

"No, not yet," continued Mr. Champion, irritated at the interruption.

"If you duck the first spade, Dale might shift to another suit. If he leads a club, you let it run to your queen and gain a trick. If he leads a heart, you wouldn't have to lose a heart trick. But say he simply continues spades. You win with the ace, finesse the queen of diamonds, then cash the two top trumps.

"Now cash the ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond in your hand. When the suit doesn't break, you lead your last spade and ruff it in dummy. Mrs. Keen can't overruff and you next lead a fourth round of diamonds and ruff. Now go to the board with the ace of clubs and lead dummy's last diamond. Mrs. Keen can ruff or not. Whatever she does, you discard a club and you end up losing only a spade, a heart and a club."
