9 In Memoriam

COSTANZO—In loving memory of Amy Beatrice Costanzo, who passed away May 2nd, 1955.
Her smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall.
She had a kindly word for each,
And she died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet her,
Some day we know not when,
To clasp her hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
Sister Anne, Harold and boys. (85)

Time and Place

stowing away had perhaps come from my home town, Port Simpson.

Bright and early next morning we were on our way up river headed for the head of navigation at Telegraph Creek. We tied up at a woodpile for the night and loaded wood for the next day's steaming. We passed a fine glacier on our left and soon excitement ran high. There was a big bear clambering around on the ice. Some of the crew started taking pot shots at him and he was trying to make himself scarce and running like the devil. No hits were registered and Mr. Bruin got away scott free.

The first habitation we came to was a small place with a few buildings called Glenora. This was the home of the Canadian Customs office. I don't remember much about the Customs officer. We only stayed a short time and got some papers signed and were on our way. Shortly after leaving there we ran into some pretty swift water and had to line the "Caledonia" over the rapids; the place was called the Glenora Rapids.

Just above there we came to three rocky pyramids sticking up in the middle of the river, named the Three Sisters. We had to pass through between them without much room to spare on either side of the ship.

On we went for a few miles and finally arrived at the city of Telegraph Creek, our destination. This was a small place on the river bank, with one street and buildings, mostly log, lining each side. The Hudson's Bay Company had a store there; another was owned by a Mr. Hyland and a third belonged to a Mr. Colberth.

Captain Bonser decided to lay over a couple of days and wash boilers, so Mrs. Bonser and Virosua, her daughter, went sight seeing. We climbed a high hill up behind the town where the cemetery was located and took some snaps of the Indian graves. Each grave had a small house over it. One, I remember, must have been the grave of a chief's wife, or some one of note. A lot of her worldy goods were stored inside.

We went into the Hyland store and met old Mr. Hyland. He was a wonderful old gentleman and was so kind to us. We asked him if there was any place to mine gold around there. He looked at his watch and said, "Be here at one o'clock after lunch and I will take you gold mining."

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

The dummy reversal play is a powerful trick-maker. Miss Brash won no less than five trump tricks in today's deal, which is the same number she would have won if she had held A K Q J 10 in her hand and two small ones in dummy.

The opening lead was the deuce of hearts and dummy's ace won. Miss Brash made a mental note of the fact that the trump suit was slightly weak. However, there was nothing in her manner to indicate that she was in any kind of trouble.

First, it was obviously essential that she get a 3-3 split of the opposing trumps. But even then she would have to find the defenders' club and diamonds divided 3-3 or lose the fourth round of one or both of those suits. It looked hopeless, but she found a solution.

Miss Brash

Playing as if the situation were a routine one, she led a heart from dummy at trick two and ruffed it. She entered dummy with a low club to the king and ruffed another heart. A small diamond to the king put dummy in again for another heart return and ruff.

The ace of spades was now cashed and followed with a diamond lead to dummy's ace. Next came the king of spades on which Miss Brash calmly discarded a club. Mr. Champion frowned at the way things were going and began to get a little red.

On the lead of dummy's last spade, Miss Brash discarded a small diamond, both opponents followed suit and Mr. Champion won with the queen. But Miss Brash had the last three tricks with the queen of diamonds and two high clubs.

"The things that happen to me in this game . . ." snarled Mr. Champion. "How could you jump to six on a spade suit like that? If you wanted to bid six, why wouldn't you try six no trump?"

"We couldn't make six no trump," was Miss Brash's eminently reasonable answer.

"That's not the point," Mr. Champion grumbled. "Do you realize that to make six spades you had to find the spades divided 3-3 and the hearts 4-4?"

"You call that a lot to expect?" Miss Brash asked innocently.

Mr. Champion was speechless for a moment. Then, "I'm surprised you didn't go for a grand slam," he remarked.

Miss Brash explained that. "I bid much more conservatively that I used to," she said.
