"Best to Get the Best"

There was a time when people who always got "the best of everything" were deemed either wealthy or extravagant, but now we have a different idea. The best is more satisfactory "in the long run." And it gives much greater satisfaction in the using or wearing of it.

This applies particularly to diamonds. Whether your turn to purchase diamonds is now, next week, next month, or in two or three years hence, it is good to remember that Birks' are "The Finest Diamonds Procurable."

SILVER STANDARD MINE IS SHIPPING ORE STEADILY

new tunnel 200 feet extra depth of veins will be gained and this greater amount of available ore will require larger and better equipment. A new road will be constructed to the mouth of the new tunnel and will give a much lower grade so that a large number of machines can be utilized for hauling. The mine, though producing very profitably, is still in the development stage and the present motor and steam engine at the mine are only temporary expediencies. With the development of water power next year, hydro-electric power will be utilized. The mill closes down for about three months of the year on account of the freezing of the present water supply. During such period only the high class ore is brought to the surface. At the present time about 40 men are engaged including all hands but Mr. Norrie-Lowenthal predicts that with the proper return to industrial conditions there will be a very large camp at the Silver Standard mine.

Free Milling.

The galena which has been stoped out of late has been running very high in value as the silver percentage has been steadily increasing upon further mining. Sphalerite (zinc) and pyrrhotite (gray copper) both occur closely associated with the lead ore and fine free milling stuff has been turned out. The whole mine has a great variety of minerals in ores and specimens of many kinds have been taken out. The method of working is known as the shrinkage system which has proved very convenient as all the veins have sufficient dip to allow the work to be carried out very easily. Boards are built from the roof of the tunnel and then the miners go up and work above these by means of a manhole. Only sufficient ore is drawn out from the chutes to keep the top of the pile at the right level to allow the miners to continue the work overhead.
