Macdonald and Oriental Question.

The Oriental question is one we shall have always with us for we are next door neighbor to the Orient and we are looking to the Orient for business and the people of the Orient are looking to us for business. Our interests to a large extent are mutual. We cannot erect a Chinese stone wall between the Orient and the Occident. It is impossible, and if erected would soon be scaled.

The average man looks with distrust on the Oriental because he cuts wages. The farmer objects to him because he is a serious competitor in business, and of late the merchants have been raising a howl because the Orientals are capturing the retail business. Those are the chief objections given.

The real objection, as M. A. Macdonald points out, is that of race assimilation. The races do not mix. A race of hybrids is not a desirable thing. The hybrid inherits all the bad qualities of either race and few of the virtues of either. Hybridization in this case makes for deterioration.

Hybrid Is Handicapped.

Possibly some may argue that the hybrid is not necessarily a degenerate. That may be true, but all the chances are against the mixing. The Oriental looks with contempt on the man who marries a white woman, and on the offspring. Similarly the white man who marries an Oriental loses social standing and is likely to be thrown in the company of those who are not looked upon as the best element in the community. The result is that not only the influence of heredity is against the hybrid but the influence of environment.

For this reason it should be to the advantage of the Oriental as well as the Occidental that there should be no mixing of the race. But there is bound to be mixing of the race when there is social intercourse, for one leads to the other as naturally as night follows day. The only way to ensure the perpetuation of a white race in this country is to make it impossible for the Oriental to come here to settle. There must be provision made for travellers and students, for to stop them coming would be to stop the progress of the world. Against settlers or laborers or prospective merchants, however, the bars should be put up and nailed up. We do not wish that our people should settle in China or Japan or India to make it a permanent home. So we should insist that the Orientals make their homes in the Orient.

What is said here has nothing to do with those who are already living in this country. The number is not sufficiently large to be a menace, and to a great extent they live as a separate people. Many of them are worthy of the highest respect. Many are well educated and their knowledge, skill, perseverance, patience and industry put us to shame.

We have much to learn from the Oriental and it is well to cease pretending to despise him. We must respect him, but we believe it is better that his development shall proceed on the other side of the ocean and that ours shall proceed on this side.

Must Remember Oriental Development.

One important thing which we on this side of the ocean must not for one moment forget, and that is that the Oriental is developing very rapidly along modern lines. Not only the Japanese but the Chinese are changing fast, and the people of India are joining the march of progress. If we do not wish to be left behind we must keep moving. If we think to shut the door of immigration on the west and keep it shut, it must be by keeping ahead in the race of progress and by filling up our vacant lands and all the waste spaces of this country with white people. We have no moral right to keep the vacant lands idle while there are people wanting to use them. If we wish to have a white Canada we must see that it is populated with whites, and possibly the best way of doing this is to start right at home and let a considerable part of the population be young Canadians, native-born.

THREE HUNDRED USE GYMNASIUM

The Methodist Church Institution Is Much In Demand by Young People.

So successful is the effort to utilize the gymnasium in connection with the Methodist church that it is with the greatest difficulty the pastor, Rev. G. G. Hacker can accommodate all who wish to practice there. Every day from four o'clock until half past nine or ten there is baseball or other recreation exercises going on there. It is hardly possible to provide time for all the classes. The Baptists use it two nights a week and the surpervising principal of the schools uses it afternoons except Friday. During this week no less than 300 have taken advantage of the opportunities afforded there and in order to accommodate them classes have been put in from 6 to 7 in the evening.

The gymnasium is filling a most useful purpose.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:-

IT is reported that the girls are all saving up to get things for the hospital ball. Why save for the amount they wear?

* * *

IN these days of speech making young men should beware of making them long on the most important occasions. I know of cases where a man made a long speech, and after the girl said "yes" or its equivalent she kept him up to his promises.

* * *

THE only thing in the world really worth keeping are your temper and your virtue.

* * *

There is a chill coming in the air and the coal dealers are smiling because they know they have us where they want us.

* * *

PERHAPS when they send their collector around later we shall have them where we want them.

* * *

ONCE again the affairs of the country are critical and it requires the very wisest statesmanship, to bring them safely through. Therefore vote for me.

* * *

What makes Peck Cy? Is it the thought of what is coming on December 6?

* * *

MICHAEL CLARK finds it impossible to keep out of the fray and also he finds it impossible to desert his old friends and co-workers, the Liberals.

* * *

FRANCE also is helping to feed the people who stabbed her in the back.

* * *

THE price of brooms has dropped. That bodes well for a clean sweep on election day.

* * *

WHAT about an overflow dance for the hospital on Monday night? Possibly Peter Black would loan the hall downstairs for the occasion.

GOOD HALIBUT HAUL SO FAR FOR OCTOBER

Despite Adverse Weather Conditions, Total of 1,400,000 Pounds Landed.

Although extremely unfavorable weather has hampered the halibut fishermen ever since the first of the month, reports obtained at the waterfront this morning place the catch landed at this port from October 1st up to yesterday at 1,400,000 pounds. This compares favorably with October of last year when a total of 1,511,000 pounds was brought in and handled here. With the week-end to go before this month is out it is very likely that this month's total will be around the figure last year. All conditions being taken into consideration, this seems satisfactory.

Many of the small halibut boats have now tied up and the larger boats are moving northwards to the Yakatat and Behring Sea banks again.

METHODISTS WERE AT HOME TO FRIENDS

Enjoyable Entertainment at Church Last Night—Debate Was Interesting.

There was a large attendance at the congregational at home at the Methodist Church last night when a most enjoyable social time was spent by the members of the congregation and visitors. Games and gymnasium turns were part of the entertainment of the younger people and those more advanced in years took part in games in the Sunday School room.

The feature of the evening was the debate on the subject "Resolved that Thomas Edison has done more for the uplift of mankind than Henry Ford." Roth Gordon and Mr. Wolstenholme spoke in the affirmative and Fred Mallett and Rev. G. G. Hacker in the negative, and honors were about even.

Refreshments were served by the Canadian Girls in Training, one of the Church clubs, and they certainly proved their ability as admirable hostesses.

COUGHLAN FISHED ON SALMON RIVER ROAD

Last Tuesday J. J. Coughlan, Jr., and friend from Seattle, rode up to Fish Creek to enjoy a few hours fishing, says the Portland Canal News. And did they prove they knew anything about hoisting the finny tribe? We should say they did. After two hours angling they returned to town with a basketful of trout, weighing 22 3-8 pounds, the smallest being not less than half a pound.

BROOMS DROPPED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—In line with the downward trend of prices in other commodities the price of brooms has dropped $1.20 per dozen.

The reduced selling price is due to current conditions. Carpet brooms are now selling at $8.40, the price having come down from $9.60 per dozen, or ten cents each. A reduction of sixty cents per dozen is announced in the price of the heavier quality of brooms used for warehouses, today's price being $10.20.
