Birthplace of Quints to be opened to public

CALLANDER, Ont. (CP) — A two-storey bungalow, birthplace of Canada's most famous sisters, is being thrown open to the public for the first time.

At 50 cents for adults or 25 cents for children, the public will be able to see the room where the Dionne Quintuplets were born.

The 60-year-old farmhouse is being restored to the appearance it had on May 28, 1934, when Annette, Cecile, Yvonne, Marie and Emelie were born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne.

The public will see the original furnishings, including the bed in which they were born.

The stove is there, too, with the original pictures and drapes; also one of the hand-made incubators rushed from Chicago and items of infant clothing.

An old wooden machine in which the clothes were washed in water hauled from the well stands in a corner of the large kitchen.

Today, Daniel Dionne, who was two years old when the Quints were born 26 years ago, lives in the upper floor of the home with his wife Audrey and their four children.

Daniel and Audrey obtained permission from the rest of the family to open the Quints' first home and are gradually gathering the original furnishings and household appointments for display.

A home built for the Quints across the street—with special screened courtyard where hundreds of thousands came from all over the world to watch them play—now is the property of Les Recluses Missionaires de Jesus Marie, a Roman Catholic religious order.
