¶ Money talks—and it often says a lot of foolish things.

¶ On the other hand, money can speak with the greatest of common sense.

¶ What kind of conversation does your purse contribute to the joy of the family? Have you educated it to gossip intelligently with the merchants who sell you the products your daily life demands?

¶ Give your income a college course in shopping for the household or for your personal needs. Education in the art of buying is found in the advertising columns of your home newspaper.

¶ Study the advertisements. They will keep you informed of new labor-saving devices to lighten your daily work—of the newest in books and music—of the styles for the coming season—of suggestions for the table—of furnishings for your home. In the advertisements you can also learn where these things may be procured and what they cost.

¶ At this season of the year you spend more time indoors. Use some of this time for your own profit.

PUT IN STOCK OF VEGETABLES

Local Produce Is Recommended to Consumers in Prince Rupert

Now is the time for Prince Rupert consumers to help the growers in the interior by buying winter supplies of vegetables while the prices are right. It will help the farmers to get cash for their produce which they will spend in buying other supplies probably coming from this city. Turnips, cabbage, carrots, beets and parsnips from points in this district now being offered on the local retail market are superior to the produce of past seasons. An especial effort is being made this fall to market those root vegetables in southern markets and, if present plans are successfully carried out, Vancouver will be receiving carload lots of northern grown vegetables which are far ahead in quality of the Alaskan turnips, etc., advertised so prominently in the Seattle market.

Onion Market Firm

The onion market is very firm and, apparently, no cheap onions are due this year owing to the light production and crop failure in many places.

Artichokes and brussels sprouts are due next week.

Freestone peaches are about over and the late fall clingstones will be the next popular variety at considerably higher prices.

Six pound baskets of choice Concord grapes are featured this week at 85c.

Florida grapefruit and quince are again on the market.

Cranberries are among the new arrivals this week. They are selling for 35c a pound. It is expected that up country ranchers will be able to supply the Prince Rupert market with local grown cranberries this year. A paying price of 25c per pound f.o.b. Prince Rupert should make this business profitable for all parties.

Rise in Canned Milk

It is expected that canned milk prices will advance shortly. Butter and cheese are considerably higher and an advance in the price of canned milk is bound to follow.

Eggs are stiffening and sugar is taking decided jumps. Flour is going down, as is feed.

Present retail prices prevailing in the city are as follows:

TRAIN SLOWS UP FOR COW

Gentle Mooley Pursued by Iron Horse on Canadian National Near Here

An amusing story of how a cow held up one of the Canadian National westbound passenger trains near Amsbury up the line from here is brought to the city by arrivals from the interior.

It happened that the train had just passed Amsbury station and was speeding westward when the cow loomed up on the tracks. On one side was a sheer drop to the Skeena River; on the other, a steep rock cut. In order to avoid hurling the gentle mooley into the river by striking it and the possibility of a derailment, there was nothing to do but slow up. The character of the land on the sides of the track remained the same for about four or five miles so the train crawled along at a very reduced speed until there was a break in the bluff at the side near the next station. Here the cow, after its exciting chase during which it had humped along for all it was worth, took to the bush and the train was able again to pick up speed.

BRITISH MONEY FOR PROVINCE

Hon. John Hart Says Investors Look to This Country for Opportunities

VICTORIA, Oct. 4.—More confident than ever of the high estimate placed on British Columbia securities by the world's money masters, Hon. John Hart, provincial minister of finance, returned to Victoria after a trip to more than two months to the British Isles and continental Europe.

When Mr. Hart left here in July what he sought primarily was a long vacation and an opportunity to revisit the scenes of his youth in Ireland and the war devastated areas of Northern France. However, he managed to put in considerable time interviewing financial experts, government officials and businessmen regarding various phases of the investment and general economic situation in their relation to British Columbia. Although his trip was not an official one, Mr. Hart took advantage of the opportunity of studying the standing of this Province's credit in financial centres, such as London and New York, and what he was told convinced him that the investor who is, in the vernacular of the stock markets, "bearish" on British Columbia is decidedly shortsighted and foolish.

Has Own Troubles

Great Britain, while in a category of its own financially, when considered with other European countries, has a mass of complicated financial problems to solve and until some of these have been more thoroughly dealt with Canada cannot expect a tremendous inflow of British capital, the minister found.

Nevertheless, he found a genuine interest in British Columbia and in other sections of western Canada being displayed by Old Country financial interests, and when their funds are released this Province should receive preferred position.

The indications are that British money will soon be invested extensively in hydro-electric and pulp enterprises in this Province, especially if an embargo on the exportation of pulpwood from Canada is adopted. The phenomenal showing of the Premier and other mines has given an impetus to British investment in British Columbia mining properties, too.

Settlers Coming

Mr. Hart commended the efforts of F. C. Wade, K.C., agent-general for British Columbia at London, for the work he is doing in focusing the attention of influential Britishers on the opportunities in this province. As a result of this campaign and also as a natural sequel to present conditions in Great Britain he expects that before long British Columbia will receive a large number of settlers from the Old Country—people of farming experience and inclination and who will be a real asset in developing the agricultural resources of the Province.

While in the East Mr. Hart conferred with Hon. W. S. Fielding, Federal Finance Minister, and Ottawa officials regarding plans to unify collection of Provincial and Dominion income taxes, thus eliminating the expense of duplication. He believes that some such plan will be worked out in detail shortly.

A worth-while Reputation

The head of one of this country's great manufacturing institutions says:

"The Man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive—to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy."

Patronize the manufacturer or merchant who has a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the good-will of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed

Every time he advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or the wares he has for sale must make good. His service must be as advertised.

That is why it pays to read advertisements, to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised goods.
