FINE EXHIBIT WOODWORKING

Big Bay Lumber Co. Has Display That Should be Seen by Everyone

MODEL BUNGALOW

The exhibit of the Big Bay Lumber Company in the exhibition hall this year is a very fine one and is attracting a great deal of attention. In this display is shown to what an art the manufacture of lumber has been brought and one marvels at the beautifully finished surfaces of the various pieces on display. The exhibit occupies the same position in the exhibition hall as it did last year, just near the entrance to the dog and poultry show.

The Interior

The interior of the booth has been entirely remodelled and does not contain a single piece of wood or sample displayed last year for the reason that last year's display is now on exhibit in England, having been handled through the Canadian National Railway's publicity department throughout Canada and ultimately sent to England.

The entire booth, including the samples and models, has been manufactured by the Big Bay Lumber Co. at their Georgetown mills. Miniature lumber piles on the counter show how lumber is piled in the lumber yard and include a miniature sample of a one inch lumber pile showing how the pieces are laid for drying purposes.

The walls are built of different sized spruce and cedar V joint and the ceiling is an interchange of cedar and V joint also. The walls of the booth are adorned with samples of every description from standard mouldings to export lumber.

The floor is built of flat grain spruce and edge grain hemlock, all of which is highly polished.

Model of Mill

In the centre of the booth is a wonderful working model, built to scale, of the Georgetown mill plant. This lifelike model was built by Martin Miller, foreman at the Georgetown mill in his spare time, and is complete in every detail. The process of manufacture of lumber is shown from the log haul to the finished product.

Colonial Bungalow

One of the main features of the exhibit is the model of a Colonial bungalow, built to scale. The bungalow is laid out in its own grounds with walks, lawns, flower beds, trees and creeper over the porch, and even a flagpole is included. This model was built by Ben Dalgarno.

Also on display are different sizes of fish boxes manufactured by the Georgetown mill and double dressed lumber of every description including aeroplane spruce with a finish like velvet.

Two ladies' workbaskets made of yellow cedar lumber occupy a prominent position on the floor and are fit to grace the boudoir of the mast fastidious.

Ralph Le Pine, local manager of the Big Bay Lumber Company, is in charge of the booth.

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO MARKET BLOCK

City Council Wants to Get Taxes Out of Square Formerly Occupied by Government Buildings

The city council, on recommendation of the finance committee, decided last night to request the provincial government to sell the block between Second and Third Avenues and Third and Fourth Streets on which the government buildings were formerly located. The reason advanced by the committee for the request was that the city was entitled to receive taxes from this property which it could not do as long as it was held by the government. The mayor further expressed the opinion that it was not desirable to have such a blank in the business section.

NEW TEACHER FOR HIGH SCHOOL HERE

Miss Beatrice Burke, B.A., Is a Graduate of University of B.C. and the Provincial Normal School

Miss Beatrice Burke, B.A., of Vancouver, graduate of the University of British Columbia and the Provincial Normal School, arrived in the city on the Prince George today to take a position on the staff of the King Edward High School. While the appointment of Miss Burke was made necessary by the board's recent decision to continue the senior matriculation class here, her work will not be confined to that grade but she will teach certain subjects in all grades.

PRINCE GEORGE WILL SAIL AT 7 O'CLOCK

Will Not Wait Until Midnight or Until After Boxing Bout, District Passenger Agent States

R. F. McNaughton, C.N.R. district passenger agent, announces definitely that the steamer Prince George will leave this evening at 7 o'clock for Ketchikan. Intimations made that the boat is being held until midnight or until after the boxing bout this evening are incorrect, Mr. McNaughton says.

ASK BEAUTIFICATION COURT HOUSE GROUNDS

On recommendation of the finance committee, the city council decided last night to ask the provincial government to proceed with the plan proposed in 1923 for the beautification of the grounds between the Court House and McBride Street, Mayor Newton, stating that the government had said that such a scheme was under consideration when the request had been made that the ground be allowed for use of junior athletes, referred to the possibilities of making a beauty spot at the point referred to.

again ably represented with a very comprehensive exhibit displaying the many kinds of finished lumber made at Georgetown mill. The features of the exhibit are the working model of the Georgetown mill and a miniature model of a Colonial bungalow, both models being built to exact scale.

The Dominion art gallery is creating a great deal of interest in which are hung many pictures by world-famed artists loaned by the Ottawa art gallery.

Swift Canadian Co. have a nice exhibit of their products, including the famous Swift "Premium" hams and bacons.

The Indian exhibit is in the same location as last year, and is very varied in its specimens of the various arts practised by the Indians of northern British Columbia, particularly the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Samples of smoked and cured fish are also on display by the Bacon Fisheries, while the Valentin dairy is again represented in the same location as last year.

The school exhibit was not staged until last last evening owing to the fact that the schools reopened only yesterday.

CLEVER SHOOTING OF CAPTAIN ASH

Canada's Champion Cowboy Shows Skill with Guns and Ropes

Captain Ash, world famous sharpshooter and roper, gave a fine exhibition of shooting and roping in the exhibition building last night before a large and appreciative audience. Captain Ash demonstrated what wonderful control and accuracy he had with a rifle and revolver. The stunts included shooting in various positions, standing, laying down backwards, and shooting while aiming by means of a looking-glass. His demonstration of roping was very clever. A very interesting entertainment was brought to a close by the captain shooting up in the ceiling at targets which, when hit, released Allied flags.

COW BAY TO HAVE FIRE ALARM BOX

City Council Decides to Move One at First Avenue and McBride Street to that Location

A long felt want at Cow Bay is to be filled by the city council. A recommendation from the utilities committee that the fire alarm box at present located at the corner of First Avenue and McBride Street be transferred to Cow Bay at a cost of $65 was adopted by the council last night. Mayor Newton stated that this would give the many boats moored at Cow Bay a chance to notify the fire department during the night when needed. Up to the present, when offices and business places at Cow Bay during the night had been closed, there had been danger of fire starting having serious consequences before the department could be called.

WELSH FUNERAL

Last Respects Paid to Owen Pritchard who Died Here on Monday.

Local Welshmen gathered at the parlors of the B.C.
