IN MEMORIAM

PARKVOLD—In loving memory of Chris, who passed away September 30, 1949.

Tho' much is taken from us,
As along life's path we wend,
The joy of sweet remembrance
Goes with us to the end.
For we leave him in God's keeping
The rough road safely o'er
Not dead to us who loved him,
But only gone before.

Suchan Tried On Charge Of Murder

TORONTO (CP)—Steve Suchan testified today he emptied his revolver at a police cruiser last March 6, the day Det. Sgt. Edmund Tong was fatally shot.

Suchan, on trial for the murder with Leonard Jackson in shooting the Toronto detective, said he aimed at the hood of the cruiser and did not intend to hit anyone.

Both Suchan and Jackson have pleaded innocent to the murder charge.

He said he was driving Jackson to the bus depot to catch a bus to Montreal.

When he saw the police car, his first thought was to get away from it because he knew the police were looking for Jackson.

"I knew Jackson was hot as a firecracker because he had escaped from Don Jail."

Full-Scale War Expected Soon In Indo-China

by LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The war in Indo-China is expected to explode into full-scale battle again by mid-October.

There's no doubt that both the French Union Forces and the Communist-led Vietminh are getting ready for major action.

Outside the rim of the main French defence bulwark—the Red River Delta in northern Indo-China—the troops of the Ho Chi Minh have been regrouping and storing up war equipment and supplies, much of it received from Communist China.

In the Delta, French striking power is steadily being boosted by vast quantities of war aid from the United States.

The heavy tropical rains that have lashed all of northern Indo-China since the end of June are expected to end in early October. That means the weather once again will be favorable for big-scale fighting.

Meantime the Vietminh seem to be laying the groundwork for an assault upon the French positions. They're blowing up or damaging bridges on key highway routes used by the French forces. They've planted scores and scores of mines along vital lines of French communications.

During the heavy rains, the Vietminh have been specializing in attacking isolated French fortified posts and ambushing French Union troops. They put on a big attack along the coast in central Vietnamh that required considerable French power to repulse.

On the French side, no one appears to be worried about a big Vietminh offensive. The French would welcome it if Ho Chi Minh should decide to throw the bulk of his five or six divisions outside the Delta into one big push.

With their superior armaments, the French might then deliver a decisive blow,, something they have been unable to do thus far in this six-year-long conflict. The Vietminh units usually retreat into the mountains and hills rather than slug it out with the French.

JOHN JENKINS, TOM BOULTER JR. and one other brought in a limit of geese from Grassy Island just west of the Scotia River on opening day. If you are nice to JOHN and tell him where he can get another good day at goose hunting, perhaps he will spend some of the coming winter evenings making you a bunch of trout flies in return.

Here is a simple way of making a hook disgorger. Take a six-inch nail, heat the pointed end red and flatten it with a few strokes of a hammer. File the end square, then make a hack saw cut about a quarter inch down so that the end looks something like a U. To use, engage the bend of the hook in the saw cut, hold the line taut alongside the disgorger and push sharply inwards. A very little practice will soon make you expert.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

Sometimes It's Smarter To Wait To Take A Trick

Few players realize the potential value of a trump holding like Miss Brash's in today's deal. Especially where the declarer can be forced to ruff one or more times. Not that Miss Brash's double of the four spade contract is to be recommended. It was highly speculative but successful nevertheless.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 D	2 S	Pass	2 N T
Pass	4 S	Dbl.	All Pass

The opening lead was the queen of diamonds and Mr. Champion overtook with the king and led back the nine. At this point Mr. Muzzy spread his hand on the table and claimed ten tricks. "Give you three aces and I have the rest," he gloated.

Both Miss Brash and Mr. Champion insisted that the hand be played out.

"But what can I lose except three aces?" Mr. Muzzy insisted. "The rest of my hand is solid."

"Even if that were true—which it isn't—" said Mr. Champion wickedly, "I'd still want you to play it out. You might revoke or something."

Convinced that his opponents were within their rights, Mr. Muzzy continued the play. He ruffed the second diamond with the ten of spades and Miss Brash discarded a club. He then led the king of spades and Miss Brash won with the ace and returned a club.

Mr. Champion won with the ace of clubs and led another high diamond. This time, Mr. Muzzy ruffed with the jack of spades and again Miss Brash discarded a club.

At this point Mr. Muzzy's highest remaining trump was the queen. The ace, king, jack and ten had been played and somehow Miss Brash managed to have left the guarded nine spot for the setting trick.

"This is a good example of what I have been telling you, about not winning a trick at your first opportunity, Muzzy," said Mr. Champion. "Miss Brash passed up her first chance to win with her ace of spades. That play eventually let her win a trick with the nine of spades. Why don't you catch on to these things?"

As usual, Mr. Champion paid dearly for giving this "lesson" as Mr. Muzzy followed his advice on the next hand, to be shown in tomorrow's column.
