McMordie and the Law

To parents of Prince Rupert and, particularly to the women voters, does Ex-Ald. McMordie's candidature for the mayoralty appeal. They know that he is out to clean up moral conditions in the city.

A plank in Mayor Newton's platform is "a decent and orderly Prince Rupert." As for that, Mayor Newton has been in office for three years and the town is now more wide open than it was when he became chairman of the police commission in 1923.

Ex-Ald. McMordie is determined not only to suppress the bootleggers but to confine women of questionable character to the restricted district and not permit them to operate in the heart of the city. It is his desire to give the youth of the city that protection which they are not now receiving.

Ex-Ald. McMordie's regime on the police court bench gives the people assurance that he is in favor of moral reform and that he is fearless in putting his convictions along that line into effect. What has Mayor Newton done to improve moral conditions in Prince Rupert?

Which of the candidates do you think is best able to make "an orderly and decent Prince Rupert?"
