COLD HOLDS BACK CROPS

Peace River District Is Still Only Bright Spot on Prairies

WINNIPEG, June 10:—Weather in the grain growing areas of Western Canada has been unseasonably cool and unsettled during the greater part of the period. A few frosts at night have been experienced and during the day high winds have blown incessantly in many districts with the result that a general soaking would do much to not only allay present soil movement but would be welcomed in districts in which the soil sheet is of a sandy nature and therefore dries rapidly. Soil drifting in some districts within the park belt is occurring for the first time due to a lessening of the soil humus and this movement is a barometer indicating the necessity for the incorporation of crop rotations in such territories. Cut worms and wiro worms have also made an appearance at points throughout the three provinces and, while in some districts their activities so far have only extended to garden truck, a continuance of dry weather will make their ravages more widespread, according to the weekly report of the department of agriculture, Canadian National Railways.

Seeding in Manitoba is finished and early sown grain varies from five to eight inches in height. Along the Miniota subdivision rye is showing in shot blade. Light land in this province blew considerably and reseeding will be necessary at a few points. Where this will have to be done the land will be sown to barley and oats. Warm weather and rains will be beneficial.

In Saskatchewan, between the second and third meridians, crops are in better condition than are the grain fields lying between the third and fourth meridians. Along the Melville - Watrous - Yorkton and Rhein subdivisions, rains were experienced the early part of the week which prevented soil drifting and in the southeastern section of Saskatchewan rain fell and very little reseeding on account of damage from worms will be necessary. Along the Beechy - Dunblane - Biggar - Newbrigden-Asquith subdivision, fields have been rapidly blown and reseeding will vary from five to about fifteen per cent of the total acreage seeded. Land for summerfallow is being rapidly blackened.

Wind in Alberta

High winds with cool weather have been a feature in Alberta and soil drifting has prevailed. There have been a few rains but not sufficient to hold the soil and many crops which were not entirely blown out on the lighter land are looking ragged. Crops have made but little progress and cut worms are reported from Three Hills in the south to Vegreville in the north. A good heavy rain, followed by warm weather, is absolutely essential if the next report issued is to show any material improvement of conditions in the grain growing areas.

The Peace River country has had warm weather with a few showers and all crops are growing well. This territory is the only one reporting growing conditions as approximately ideal with crops coming along fast.

Although heavier than a week ago, receipts on western stockyards are still light for this season of the year. Killing cattle are changing hands at slightly lower prices and if the arrivals of grassers increase prices will react to lower levels. The demand for store cattle has slowed up with a similar reaction in prices. Hog receipts are light and prices remain firm.
