BIG MAN WON OUT

Bob Kruse Suffered Another Mat Defeat Last Night at Hands of Dan Koloff

TACOMA, Feb. 25:—In a speedily decided wrestling match here last night, Dan Koloff, 225-pound Bulgarian giant, defeated Bob Kruse with two falls out of three. There were but three rounds, a fall being made in each, and only about nine minutes of actual wrestling. Koloff had an advantage of 25 pounds in weight over the young Portland grappler.

Kruse took the first fall with a flying wristlock four minutes and 51 seconds after the start of the match. He had thrown Koloff all around the ring with repeated wristlocks and body slams.

Koloff scored his first fall after three minutes and 21 seconds of the second round. Kruse reached out for a reverse headlock but Koloff threw him with a body slam before Kruse had time to know what was happening. It was a severe fall and Kruse took several seconds to get up.

Kruze was wobbly and looked all in as the third round opened. In just 33 seconds Koloff pinned him to the mat with a reverse headlock and the match ended.

SPORT CHAT

Assume you are the person called North and you are seated at a bridge table in the smoking room of a transatlantic liner. You had better—and this is the advice of Sidney S. Lenz, bridge expert—keep a weather eye to the East, South and West. Particularly watch their bidding. For if East, that charming and somewhat wistful gentleman whom you met yesterday on the promenade deck, says "One spade," he may mean something entirely different to the sweet little girl who so graciously consented to take the fourth hand. To her, confederate of East's in many a high seas bridge encounter, the shift in words may identify every important card in East's hand.

For the card sharpers, who have seized upon the game of contract bridge as their especial gravy, work out revealing codes which net them plenty of profits, says Mr. Levy. "By a code of nine words I can identify every one of the 52 cards," the bridge expert declares. "The sharpers can do as well—and they have." The codes are constantly shifted to avoid recognition. Two other methods are used by the ocean going slickers. They mark cards, and they use the old cold deck game. Cards are marked either with a sharp finger nail or with a pinpoint set in the player's vest. The idea is to raise a slight bump on the back of the ace, king and queen of each suit. The dealer feels these bumps as he deals, and "second-cards" his unsuspecting opponents. To "second-card" is to deal the card next to the top instead of the one on top—and the nimble fingered gentry are so facile at it that even wise onlookers can't detect them.

This system of controlled distribution means that perhaps as many as ten of the high cards in the deck are concentrated in the hands of the two confederates. "Second-carding" is much simpler in bridge than in poker, as the dealer has to do it only once to put a desired card where it will help—either in his hand or his partner's. Cold decks ordinarily are not resorted to, says Mr. Lenz, until a game is adjourned to a sharp's stateroom. A handkerchief is passed across the brow, or a nose is blown, and a new deck enters the game, although the victims don't know it. The prize cold hand goes like this: Spades, A. K; Hearts, A. K. Q. J; Diamonds, K. J. 9; Clubs, A. K. Q. J. It is dealt to the man whose money is about to be taken. One of the confederates holds four little diamonds and no spades. The confederates take the bid with five diamonds, doubled and redoubled. They seize control by trumping at the outset, and the one with the four small diamonds leads trumps through the possessor of the seemingly impregnable hand. It all sounds complicated, but work it out with a deck. You'll find the result to be a grand slam in diamonds. Mr. Lenz is in charge of a brigade of 200 bridge experts on the French Line, who lecture and hold duplicate hand tournaments. He says he and his colleagues apparently have scared away the sharpers.

GREENVILLE IS WINNER

Conquered Aiyansh in Three Basketball Games on Thursday of Last Week

Greenville basketball players took Aiyansh hoopsters into camp in three straight games which were played at Greenville last Thursday night. The scores were 27 to 21, 36 to 11 and 45 to six. Fred McKay was manager of the Greenville team while Kenneth Cecil was in charge of Aiyansh's.

After the games, the Aiyansh players were tendered a delightful party by their Greenville hosts.

Greenville, which has already demonstrated its superiority at Anyox, would have liked to have come to Prince Rupert this winter for a series of games but the fact that there is no hoop league in operation precludes the possibility.

The individual scores in the Greenville-Aiyansh games were as follows:

First Game

Greenville—Jas. Leeson, 1; J. McKay, 11; V. McKay, 2; W. Robinson, 10; A. McKay, 1; A. Stephens, 2; total, 27.

Aiyansh—Jas. Wilson, 9; E. Johnson; H. McMillan; S. Clayton, 6; White, 2; S. Bright, 2; A. Williams; H. Polard, 2; A. Derrick; G. Robinson; total, 21.

Second Game

Greenville—H. Angus, 1; V. McKay, 3; A. Angus, 8; J. McKay, 11; F. Ross, 4; W. Robinson; S. Wilson; A. Stephens, 9; total, 36.

Are You a Judge of Whisky?

Men have been known to think, and even heard to say, that the whisky with a "kick" or a bite is stronger than the whisky without it.

It is seldom so, the "kick" is due to one fact and one fact only, which is the admixture of raw spirit to a blend.

"WHITE HORSE" is a whisky without a bite or kick, and which fits perfectly each occasion and every mood.

A more mellow, generous and delightful spirit than "WHITE HORSE" is not obtainable.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
OTTAWA, CANADA

To Canadian Citizens,
Everywhere in Canada.

Bring the Boys and Girls Back Home!

How often have we all deplored the fact that thousands upon thousands of our most promising young men and women find it necessary to leave Canada, in order to seek in some other country opportunities for the employment of their talents that seem to be lacking here?

As individuals we have deplored it, because in these cases the sorrow that is caused us through the breaking of family circles and home ties is accentuated by a sense of irrevocable loss, due to a feeling that the separation is going to be permanent. And from a broad national standpoint we have deplored it, because it has meant a serious drain upon the very kind of population—gifted, energetic, ambitious—that we most need to help in developing our magnificent natural resources.

Must we continue to rear and educate our children—to equip them as best we can for the successful careers we hope will be theirs—only to lose them to an alien flag because of the dearth of opportunity for them at home?

Opportunity of any kind is a result, of which production of some kind is always the cause. Most people create their opportunity by engaging directly in some form of production, such as farming, fishing, mining, lumbering or manufacturing. These people provide the foundation and, according as they succeed, opportunity is created for others in all the occupations that constitute the super-structure, such as transportation, banking, insurance, trading, the professions and public service.

The more the people of a country favor their own producers, thus giving the latter all the incentive necessary to increase the volume and broaden the scope of their production, the more abundant will be the immediate opportunities they create for themselves, and the future opportunities they create for their children.

If in the past opportunity has not been as abundant in Canada as it has been elsewhere, it is because Canadian producers as a class have not been as successful as producers elsewhere have been. And the chief reason our producers have been less successful is because they have failed to receive from Canadian citizens generally the same loyal support that the producers in certain other countries have received from their citizens.

Some of these countries import practically nothing that they are capable of producing for themselves. But we Canadians are so careless about our daily buying, so thoughtless of the welfare of our producers, so short-sighted about keeping the door of opportunity open for our sons and daughters, that every working day we allow ourselves to be sold about $2,500,000 worth of imported merchandise that our own producers would have been glad to make for us, if we had only given them the chance!

Why not let us all resolve that from now on we'll try to bring our boys and girls back home by remembering, in our buying, that it must always be "Canada First"!

Very sincerely yours,

H. H. Stevens

Minister of Trade and Commerce.
