It is understood that the Girl Guides are coming from Prince Rupert soon for their annual camp at Lakelse Lake under the supervision of Mrs. C. J. Norrington.

On Saturday week a dance was held at Usk in celebration of the wedding recently of S. Varner and Miss Durham. A large company was present. Pieces of the wedding cake were handed around and an air of gaiety pervaded the evening.

J. Colliver had an alarming accident at Lakelse Lake when his sail boat capsized in a squall. The skipper was imprisoned beneath the sail for a time but he was rescued.

Two boys also met with a mishap with their canoe at Lakelse. Raymond Loen's boat capsized and his friend Harry Attree swam out to his rescue.

During the week the weather has been cool and showery. The following figures are from the July meteorological report of the local observer: Temperature, maximum, 97; minimum, 42; average, 63; precipitation, 2 inches.

British Navy Helps Jack Hulbert Make Picture

Jack Hulbert, popular British comedian, is back again at the Capitol Theatre here the first of this week in "Jack Ahoy!" The glamorous background of the sea and the magnificent spectacle of the British Navy in action are combined with a good story. Hulbert has his own ideas of how a member of His Majesty's fleet ought to conduct himself, but when he attempts making love to the Admiral's daughter something happens. Jack rescues the admiral and his daughter single-handed from the clutches of blood-thirsty Chinese pirates. The pirates give chase. Jack takes refuge in a submarine that is anchored nearby and after manipulating the various levers is finally able to get away. Eventually Jack brings all to safety and is signally honored by the commander of the fleet amid the cheers of his fellow sailors.

Jack has every opportunity of singing and dancing in his inimitable way. The sailor's hornpipe is a treat and the new song hit "My Hat's on the Side of My Head," is also put over in good style.

Nancy O'Neil and Tamara Desni are the principal feminine members of the cast and their loveliness adds greatly to the appeal of the film.

G. C. Walker returned to the on the Princess Adelaide at end of the week from a two-w business trip to Vancouver.
