MEN'S BANQUET GREAT OCCASION

Over One Hundred Anglicans Met at Festive Board and Heard Music and Speeches

COMMUNITY SINGING

The annual men's banquet in the Anglican Church was this year well up to its usual standard. Considerably over one hundred men sat down to the laden tables last night, presided over by A. E. Bazett-Jones and enjoyed a wonderful dinner served by the ladies of the church. Afterwards they listened to vocal music and addresses and took part themselves in community singing led by J. W. Nicholls.

The speakers included the chairman, Archbishop DuVernet, Archdeacon Rix, Consul Wakefield, Principal Brady of the High School, Walter Gale, Mayor Newton and H. F. Pullen, George Hill, and H. A. Philpott. The Anglican male quartette made up of E. E. Fisher, Max Collison, Corporal Brice and W. H. Warlock sang most acceptably, while the solos by J. W. Morrison and S. K. Campbell were received with great enthusiasm and each was recalled and responded with a second song.

The supper arrangements were in the hands of the Women's Auxiliary and nothing was missing.

The conveners of tables were Mesdames Willett, Tremayne, Bazett-Jones, Greer and Beaumont. Those who helped carry out the work were Mesdames McCoskrie, Holtby, Cross, Burt, A. E. Wright, Vickers, Hinton, Evitt, Philpotts, Cade, Orchard, Mackie, Mills, A. E. Nicholls, St. G. Lee, Barnsley, Parkin, J. C. McLennan, La Trace, Woodland and Miss DuVernet, and Miss Ellett. Mrs. R. L. McIntosh was general convener. Thos. W. Herne aided with the carving.

Following the supper was a short series of addresses, the subject being "The Commonwealth of Nations." The chairman announced that Britain did not need anyone to speak for her so "Rule Britannia" was sung.

India

Speaking of India, George Hill told of visiting that country. He spoke of the early history of the nation where 250,000,000 people lived in a troubled condition before the British took control. Even today there were 600 native princes, and numerous religions and sects. These made it impossible for the people to unite. Mr. Hill spoke of empire builders such as Robert Clive and Lord Roberts. The country was the scene of brilliant and daring exploits and also of grave mistakes. It was the just government of the British that kept the country together. In spite of the mistakes that had been made, owing largely to errors of judgment, historians of the future, he felt sure, would give the verdict that the Empire had done its duty by India and British rule had been justified.

Canada

H. A. Phillpott traced the early steps in the history of Canada which are well known to all the younger generation. He mentioned the discoverers and outstanding men and the disputes with the United States. Speaking for the future, he urged that while the nation was only small, so far as population was concerned, and had wonderful resources, all waste and extravagance should be stopped.

Australia and New Zealand

J. C. Brady in an eloquent address spoke of the countries of the antipodes. He referred to Kipling, the greatest Imperialist and living poet, and quoted from him. He told of the settlement of Sydney by convicts, many of whom were innocent patriots. Australia had risen to her destiny and was today a gem in the crown of the British nation.

New Zealand was a wonderful country and one of the most progressive in education, legislation and humanitarian movements. She had a population of a million people and was in a latitude similar to B.C. The speaker mentioned the spirit of loyalty to the Empire, as shown by the instantaneous response when war was declared. Australia was 98 per cent British while New Zealand was 99 per cent British. There never was a young country so happy, peaceful and united as New Zealand. There was a freedom from governmental attacks such as had been seen here. The Government was administered by magnanimous and great minds. While the people enjoyed domestic peace they had proved that peace did not breed effeminacy.

Mr. Brady spoke of the Empire as one unit working toward a definite goal. They revered the memory of the great men who had gone forth and founded portions of the Empire. Today these outlying portions were opening their arms to receive the sons and daughters of the old land. Long might the Dominions join hands across the seas with the motherland to keep freedom afloat.

South Africa

Consul Wakefield told of the early founders of South Africa and particularly of the great empire builder Cecil Rhodes. In that country were only two million whites and eight million blacks. He spoke of the mines, the ostrich farms, the sheep and cattle industry. The dry country was in direct contrast to this part of B.C.

Politically the country had been saved to the cause of the empire by Jan Smuts and Louis Botha, who stood for freedom within the British Empire, just as there was in Canada. He was not here to sing the praises of the British Empire but he spoke of the friendly bonds that bound the United States and Canada and expressed the hope that they might never be strained.

Archdeacon Rix

Archdeacon Rix thanked all who had helped on that occasion and told how the church was run. There was a central missionary fund administered by the bishop of the whole diocese and the salaries of the clergy and all other expenditures were paid out of that. None of the churches paid in as much as they received out, the balance coming from missionary funds outside. He thought Prince Rupert should be independent of any fund as it was hardly incumbent upon them to receive charity. The church had been unfortunate in losing supporters through their being moved away. The church was financed by open collections and by an envelope collection. If they got a guarantee of $50 a week they could carry on and pay all their obligations. Becoming more serious, the Archdeacon said when anything was wrong with the body they tried to remedy it and also they cultivated their minds. Many, however, did not think of that which lasted longer than the body, the living soul.

To the Ladies

Walter T. Gale in proposing a toast to the ladies said away back in the mid-Victorian era the ladies had begun to agitate to be freed from the bonds of man domination and in a manifesto clamed the right to be the equal of men. This could never be because they were immeasurably superior. They were better able to endure pain, to bring up children and to manage a household.

Mr. Gale said a number of bright things one of which was that Eve could not have the measles in the Garden of Eden because She'd Adam. Of course this could only be properly appreciated by an English audience.

In concluding Mr. Gale thanked the Anglican ladies for their work and said no words of his could express what the men felt. In this the women showed their superiority, for who ever heard of men giving a banquet to women and waiting on them. He asked them to drink to the sweethearts, mothers and wives.

Archdeacon Rix regretted that Judge Young had been unable to be present. The gathering closed just before midnight with the singing of "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

TONGUE COATED, BAD TASTE IN MOUTH, EYES TINGED WITH YELLOW

Liver Trouble the Cause

Mrs. A. C. Brown, Oromocto, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled with my liver for a few years back, and was so bad I did not feel able to do my work.

I had severe pains in my stomach, so bad I could hardly stand them at times; coated tongue; bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning; whites of eyes tinged with yellow, and had a muddy and sallow complexion.

I had read a great deal about Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and decided I would try a vial, and after taking two or three I found I was greatly improved, and can truthfully say that I felt more like living and can now do my own work without any trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
