BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

When your opponents get into a contract of three no trump, your side will usually have about 14 high card points, or slightly less.

If you have more than 14, you can figure either that your opponents have some long suits they are counting on for tricks or they have overbid their cards.

No trump contracts are chiefly a battle in "time." The weapons at the disposal of both sides are high cards and long suits. It is a contest to see which side can set up its long suit or suits before the opposition can do so.

At suit contracts, however, a competent defender has to think and plan along different lines. A new weapon has been added—the matter of ruffing.

Mr. Abel

You can have a suit a mile long and solid from the top, but it will not bring in even one trick if declarer or dummy is void in the suit and has plenty of trumps.

In today's deal Mrs. Keen got into a four-heart contract with only 20 points in her hand and dummy, leaving an equal number of points for the defense.

In addition, the defense had the usual advantage of making the first lead. But Mrs. Keen got home with ten tricks just the same.

Mr. Abel led the jack of diamonds. Mrs. Keen won with the ace and ruffed a diamond on the board. She cashed dummy's ace of clubs and ruffed a club in her hand. Now she led another diamond toward dummy.

Here Mr. Abel ruffed with the ace of hearts and, in an effort to stop further ruffs in dummy, returned a trump.

Mr. Dale won this with the king and returned his last heart to take the last trump off the board. But it was too late to do anything about beating four hearts. Mrs. Keen lost only two hearts and a diamond.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♦	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass.
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	All Pass

Opening lead: Jack of diamonds.

Mr. Abel had no reason to be proud of his play of going in with the ace of trumps at trick five.

He should have thought of that before he made his opening lead.

While it is commendable and, in fact, often desirable, to lead the suit your partner has bid, there is no sense in developing a slavish attitude toward that procedure.

Mr. Abel had heard Mr. Champion bid clubs and spades, and then raise hearts.

Surely the dummy figured to be very short in diamonds and immediate trump leads would reduce dummy's ability to ruff.

If the defenders had cashed their two top trumps at the start, Mrs. Keen could have ruffed only one diamond and would have ended up losing two diamonds and two hearts.
