San Francisco, Sept. 6.—U. S. navy submarine F. 1, has established a world's record for depth reaching today, diving 283 feet off Point Diablo in San Francisco bay. The boat remained at this depth for ten minutes, cruising at a speed of six knots and finally rising to within ten feet of the surface with ease. Under command of Lieut. James B. Howell "F. 1" cruised for six hours, going out through the Golden Gate and circling a pilot boat eight miles out. #### POPULAR OLD TIMER AND MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEE HAS RETURNED A BENEDICT

By the "Old Reliable" Camosun early this morning there arrived quietly and unostentatiously as is his wont, Mr. L. E. Macfarlane, the city sanitary inspector, bringing with him his bride. So skillfully did Mr. Macfarlane manage his honeymoon return to Prince Rupert that very few of his eagerly expectant friends with their long-stored old shoes and rice managed to get wind of his coming. The happy bridal pair had been expected by several different boats before. Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane were married in Vancouver at the First Presbyterian Manse by the Rev. J. R. Wilson on the 21st of August. As all Prince Rupert knows, Mr. Macfarlane's bride was Miss Hughes of the General Hospital staff, a staff of late quite often called upon to furnish brides for eligible Prince Rupert bachelors. Miss Hughes' return as Mrs. Macfarlane is cordially welcomed by her many friends and the bridegroom's friends of the city staff are delighted to welcome him warmly. It is over four years now since Mr. Macfarlane arrived in Rupert as a pioneer, before there was even a plankway. He has now a pretty new home on a splendid corner lot site on Sixth avenue, and to it he welcomes a bride whose popularity is assured.

STURDY IMPERIALISM IS THE NOTE STRUCK STRONG BY SIR GEORGE DOUGHTY

Prince Rupert's Great Fishing Industry May Furnish Men for Imperial and Canadian Navy

Naturally Sir George Doughty in his address last night to the Canadian Club, dwelt on the fishing prospects of Prince Rupert. He put it very simply. He said that to his knowledge there is no place in the world where the fishing resources within reach are so abundant. He knows of no other place so rich in marine resources in the world. Referring to the advantages coming to Prince Rupert from the establishment here of the fishing industries which are starting operations, Sir George touched aptly on the question of alien labor in these industries, and brought the thought swiftly into line with his main subject of Empire by showing that from the fishing population Great Britain has always drawn her best sailors and naval men. Prince Rupert, he believes, will contribute seamen for the Canadian and Imperial Navy. On the question of Empire, as it affects the future of the British race, Sir George emphatically stated his belief in supremacy of the British race, pointing out what they had done in molding all that is most cherished in the world today. High principles and religion were the foundations upon which the Empire had arrived at the high pinnacle that it holds today amongst the nations of the earth. The British Empire today owes its foremost position and strength to the possession of a navy of a strength and character never equalled before in the history of nations. The speaker dwelt for a few moments upon the policies of the great Canadian statesmen who have been guiding the destinies of the Dominion during recent years, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden. He was not there to advise Canadians, he trusted to their natural sense of would take, as to the future defenses of the Empire. In dealing with the German war scare Sir George pointed out that while Canada had been increasing in commercial prosperity as the years rolled by, every dollar of invested capital, depended for its protection upon the strong arm of the Imperial navy. He warned his audience not to be lulled into a sense of false security, by the idea that matters of sentiment would deter the German nation from assuming a hostile attitude, should the occasion offer of attempting to secure by arms the supremacy of the seas. In this connection this sturdy old Britisher asserted in no halting fashion, that should the nation in question make a break at the present moment, the British fleet would smother them in 48 hours. In conclusion Sir George remarked that if Canada was to be a great country, it was not this present generation alone that merited consideration but our children and our children's children. He hoped in the future to visit Northern British Columbia on many occasions, and was leaving his son to represent him as a Canadian settler, the next best thing he could do to remaining himself.
