Fur Flying Here—Liberty Loving Species Moving From Ethiopia and China —Alberni Near Completion of Overhaul

These may be quiet days as far as fishing in concerned but all is not dull along the Prince Rupert waterfront. Now we think of a certain grocery store which has become something of a fur trading centre and may well be called Prince Rupert's fur exchange. Here it is that the fur flies as the buyers vie with each other to beat out even the New York prices. Here it has even been said you may go in with the idea of buying yourself a pound of tea, coffee or butter but, if you haven't got your wits about you, you may find yourself coming out instead with a first class fur. Yes, fur is the thing these days. And, talking about furs, the buyers had the surprise of their lives a few days ago when a bunch of very strange skins was brought in. They were known to naturalists as Ethiopian civit cats (the Abyssinian variety of skunk to you, dear readers). In all earnestness, the trapper responsible for this catch is reported to have said that even the liberty-loving civit cats no longer relish the fertile plains of Ethiopia. The next we will be hearing, we suppose, will be that the musk deer, also known for their perfume giving propensities, will be moving out of North China. Yes, Prince Rupert is indeed making a name for itself as a fur centre, to say nothing of tall stories and flights of imagination.

Dr. Neal Carter, director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, sailed Thursday night on the Prince George for Vancouver. He, with members of the staff of the Nanaimo Biological Station, will give a course of lectures for fishermen at Port Alberni. Dr. Carter's subject will have to do with the preservation of fish after being caught and before delivery to shore. He is due back here about the middle of December and, with John Dybhavn, will be leaving on December 7 for Ottawa to attend the annual meeting of the Biological Board of Canada.

Albert Farrow, steamboat inspector, arrived in the city on the Princess Adelaide yesterday afternoon from Vancouver to complete inspection of the lighthouse tender Alberni which has been at the local dry dock for the past month or so undergoing repairs and annual overhaul. Mr. Farrow will be returning to Vancouver aboutthe middle of next week.

Capt. Lorne Godfrey has assumed duty as pilot of the steamer Cardena which was in port last evening.

Jeffrey White of Massett, who was in Vancouver with his fishing boat Waterfall, figured in an attempted rescue incident during the thick fog at Vancouver on Tuesday evening of this week and nearly lost his own life as he attempted to save that of another man. Frank Myers, watchman for the Canadian Fishing Co. at Vancouver, had fallen during the fog from the company's dock at the foot of Gore Avenue. Terribly injured, Myers feebly called for help and his cries were heard by White who was on his boat moored nearby. White, after calling for help proceeded to assist Myers and himself missed his footing and fell into the water. A constable caught him by the hair of his head and brought him ashore. White was none the worse for his experience. Myers died of the spinal and internal injuries which he sustained.

Announcement is made of the appointment of M. J. K. Allen, prominent Vancouver shipping and business man, as vice-president of the Union Steamships Ltd. Mr. Allen figured prominently in a recent change in ownership of the company. Harold Brown is president of the company.

Owing to last night's storm, C.N.R. stamer Prince John, Captain Neil McLean, did not sail until 9:30 this morning for Vancouver via the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Northland Transportation Co.'s steamer North Sea, Capt. A. W. Nickerson, is due in port tomorrow from Ketchikan, bringing in a couple of carloads of frozen fish for transshipment East over Canadian National Railways. This will be the first call here of the North Sea following the recent week's tie-up of the vessel at Seattle owing to a strike of cooks and waiters.

Timely Recipes

APPLE SALADS

Whether fresh, dried, evaporated or canned the apple is a wholesome food, easily prepared, attractive and palatable at all times. There is no waste in a good apple. Due to the large amount of pectin contained in apple juice, it may be used in other fruits to give a consistency to jams and marmalades, and even the parings and the cores of apples may be utilized for jelly.

Baked Apple Salad

Bake Canadian-grown apples until tender. Stuff the centres with nuts and raisins and serve with salad dressing or whipped cream.

Thinks No Need Of Minister Of Mines

Chamber of Commerce Refuses to Endorse Stewart Recommendation that Separate Minister be Appointed

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night, in connection with a recomendation coming from Stewart that a separate minister of mines be appointed to have charge of the department of mines, adopted a report of its own mines committee suggesting that a reduction rather than increase of governmental expenditures was desirable. If the department was not functioning satisfactorily the remedy did not lie in the increase of cabinet members, it was felt.
