GREEN IS POPULAR

English Women Wearing Shade For Eire Pact

(By Mollie McGee)

LONDON, June 11: (CP)—Even fashions are impressed with improved relations between London and Dublin and the British Color Council has given its blessing to a special line of green called "Eire" to mark this cordial development.

In truly Irish manner, the new color differs not a fraction of a shade from that previously known as "Paddy Green" but small samples of material dyed the new tint and attached to imposing folders have been sent out by the authorative body which has the say on styles in colors.

The cover of the folder bears merely the seal of the council and the word Eire in capital letters and of course in green ink. Inside is the following explanation facing the sample: "This color is sponsored by the British Color Council to commemorate the consolidation of good relations between Great Britain and Eire."

Under such pressure it can be taken for granted that by the end of the summer "Eire" dresses, hats coats and thousands of yards of material worn by thousands of Englishwomen will be proclaiming the removal of wigs from green.

Speeds Training

Aside from such impulsive gestures, the most popular colors with British women seem to be khaki and military Horizon Blue—and even these are not being donned with sufficient haste to please officialdom. To speed up matters, Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare broadcast an appeal for 600,000 women to join for the Air Raid Precautions Service. "Bring to this difficult job your fresh mind, your keen imagination, your untiring devotion which already have made women's work a priceless treasure in our national life," he said.

By posters and in the press the government has asked for 1,000,000 volunteers. In two months 400,000 have joined. Now there is a drive to interest the other 600,000. For the first time during peace in British history women have been asked to take active service in defence of their country.

So that the public may be assured the aviation section of the Women's Legion is no fly-by-night affair led by young hotheads, official recognition has been given this organization by the air ministry and Lady Loch is taking charge, co-operating with Lady Londonderry and her Women's Legion of officers.

Honor Woman Glider

Older women who have watched the advance of aviation from its infancy have suddenly come to the fore, among them Miss Agnes Baden Powell, sister of Lord Baden-Powell and the late Major B. F. S. Baden Powell, the aviation pioneer. She has just been elected an honorary Companion of the Royal Aeronautical Society, the second woman to receive that distinction.

Miss Baden-Powell's flying experiences were in the gliders of 1903-1904 and she was a close friend of the Wright Brothers, Marconi and Bleriot. She has never flown in an airliner. "I have only flown in gliders and balloons. I don't think airplanes are safe yet," she told interviewers in all seriousness and as one reason why she is not an Honorary Colonel of the Women's Air Force.

Girls in Thousands Go Forth From Japan to Make Homes in Conquered Areas

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

NEW YORK, June 11: (AP) — Several thousand lovelorn young Japanese immigrant-farmers are sighing under the spring moon of Manchoukuo (Manchuria) and counting the lagging hours until the arrival of 2,400 girls who are being sent out from the homeland to become colonial brides.

These little women and their prospective husbands are among the "covered wagon" pioneers of one of the world's greatest colonization schemes. They are the vanguard of 5,000,000 Nipponese who will be sent out to consolidate for Mikado and country this rich conquest, for which Japan stands condemned by many nations.

The girls will go forward to the youths they never have seen, to build homes and work in the fields and bear babies for the glory of Nippon, trusting blindly in the old Japanese proverb: "Love makes every girl beautiful to her man."

The slums of cities present terrible conditions and it is estimated that at least 2,000,000 people must be moved to relieve the situation. As things are, whole families of six or seven people live in single rooms perhaps 12 feet square.

In the overcrowded country districts the farms are too small to provide livelihood for all who are born to the soil. Sons and daughters either become virtual pensioners of their parents or seek their fortunes in the big cities, frequently to land in the 12-foot cell of the slums.

Such conditions produce many serious social problems. One of them is political unrest. So the government proposes to ease the situation by sending 1,000,000 families—5,000,000 souls—to Manchuria in the next 20 years. Such as are capable among the impoverished of the slums will be sent over-seas, as will the younger sons of hard-hit farmers.

Thus far some 20,000 families, totalling 100,000 people, have been sent to Manchuria. They are being helped financially by the government. The colonization will be speeded up as the settlements grow.
