GRAPEFRUIT SOUFFLE PIE

One pastry shell, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, ¼ cup grapefruit juice, 1 cup broken grapefruit sections, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla extract.

Prepare pastry shell; prick lightly with fork. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes to set the crust. Melt butter over low heat, add flour and salt; stir until mixture is smooth. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thick, cool slightly. Separate eggs. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, then add to cooked mixture. Add orange rind, grapefruit juice, grapefruit sections, sugar and flavoring. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold into first mixture. Pour into pastry shell and bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 1 hour.

Yield: one 10-inch pie.

WORLD IS TOO BUSY

Not Doing Serious Work Properly —Banking Isn't What It Used To Be

Stephen Leacock says the world is becoming too serious today, even to do its serious work properly.

Take first, the case of banking. What a serious trade it has become! As I first remember it in my home town of Mariposa (population 4,000 but locally estimated more) it was a profession calculated to enlarge the amenities of life. A bank manager was supposed to turn up with the key of the bank about ten; the clerks dropped in soon after. The manager only stayed till a customer asked him out for a drink, the usual civility after receiving a loan, or until he asked a customer out for a drink, the usual courtesy after refusing a loan.

This kept the manager in and out of the bank all day, seeing the public all the time, always pleasant and agreeable—why not? And thus gathering a business without trying for it. For business, like happinness, comes easiest when least sought. The banker's clerks never studied books on banking—there weren't any—didn't bother with graphs or charts—except for the races—went home at three o'clock, played tennis until dark and poker (ten matches to a cent) till daylight. And yet, in the words of an old song, "the world went very well then."

The Letter Box

IS THERE AN ANSWER?

Editor, Daily News:

What is man, that thou art mindful of him?

Some people think they are quite something in the affairs of the earth but it seems the wisest of us are very ignorant. The Creator of the unicerse is incomprehensible to us, not to mention the vast mysteries of the earth alone being beyond our comprehension, yet we have several nations who are trying to ignore such a being and who would elect their various dictators to His status.

We find little need of thrills or amusement aside from our perusal of things of this kind in the papers alone. What ignorance or conceit on the part of certain Italians or Germans or Japanese who wish us to assume they are fighting a terrible menace in the matter of Russia! How they are able to figure out what they have in the way of decency which Russia has not is beyond our comprehension. In fact, we are getting rather disgusted with their claims to superior virtues.

On a recent Sunday we witnessed the crowning of the Pope to reign over many million Christian peoples scattered over the face of the globe. The majority of the Italian people are members of his church and organizations. However, at midnight of the same day, we believe that thousands of Jews were ordered across the frontiers of Italy. Fancy such a spectacle by a country professing to be a Christian land and placing themselves on a pedestal as being superior to the Communists. France would not receive them. In fact she does not know what to do about the thousands of Spaniards she now has within her borders.

In Spain we have the spectacle of two factions of a nation, both of which are supposed to be believers in Christ, and at least one party to this massacre being supported by two other nations which claim to be so superior to Russia, not to mention to a mere democracy, carrying out an undeclared war upon women and children.

Italy bombed defenseless natives with shells and gas and the so-called civilized world pretended to be horror-stricken. We have the same thing in China today but no one seems to be doing much about the situation.

We are coming to believe there may be more at the back of these conditions—Manchuria, Abyssinia, Spain and China, etc.—than appear on the hurface. We have also concluded that our boasted civilization has not proved a success. Our civilization has merely added new and more barbarous refinements to the brute instincts of the Dark Ages.

We think it is useless for Britain to assume that she is dealing with civilized peoples any longer. We doubt if this instance would create a precedent. Chiang Kai Shek, while a Communist general, acted in a similar manner to our Hitler, etc. The brutalities of the Communists and others were perpetrated by him. In one of his raids he burned a foreign hospital. The missionary later called upon him. "I have come to ask a favor of you, sir." "You will not get it, whatever it is," was the general's reply. "My hospital is in ruins; may I have the privilege of healing your wounded men? I have no other work to do."

Rendered dumb, Shek finally accepted the offer. When Shek repeated the incident to his wife she showed no signs of amazement. "There is nothing remarkable in that; he is only putting into practice the doctrines of his religion." After due consideration the general said: "If that is what the foreign devils' religion really is then I, too, will become a Christian." Later, when Shek's wife flew to share the captivity of the general, the general who captured him was also converted and released Shek and his wife.

We do not expect Chamberlain followed this line of diplomacy with Hitler nor do we believe Hitler would accept the teachings of Christ as both the Chinese Communists did. He is a superman?

"CURIOUS"

SWAN SONG POSTPONED

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 29: (CP)—The wild swan and Canada geese species, many of which perished in former years by going over Niagara Falls, are becoming wiser. Approximately 300 swans and 60 geese rested on the Niagara River ice the other night but only one of them—a swan—went over the edge and it apparently escaped injury.
