FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 3

Mountain-Grown Teas Best

The tea plant grows best in the pure cool atmosphere of a mountain tea garden. The higher the garden, the finer and more delicious the flavour of the tea. This is partly due to the clear sunshine on a high mountain side, partly to the more invigorating air, partly to the more frequent rainfall and perfect drainage. The largest and roughest leaf grown at an elevation of 7000 feet is much superior in flavour to the tiniest tip grown only 2000 feet above sea-level. All teas used in the "SALADA" blends are grown from 4000 feet to 7,500 feet elevation. The trademark "SALADA" is a guarantee of quality.

Vice-President's Visit Satisfactory.

Vice-president Dalrymple came here with no pleasant promises such as have been given many times in the past by others, promises fated to be broken. He did something while he was here. He got us a totem pole and he talked in a business way about a boat with good prospects that one will be on the run out of this port before very long.

Mr. Dalrymple discouraged the idea that the railway would spend much money here just now. He said that the Dominion Government to which they looked when they needed money, were averse to making expenditures. It was a time rather for retrenchment.

When a business man comes and talks business and we realize that he means what he says, we are bound to also look at things from the business point of view. We hope Mr. Dalrymple will come to see us often.

The Old Naas Totem Will Be Nice Gift.

The old Naas River totem is Mr. Dalrymple's gift to the people of Prince Rupert. He probably does not consider it that, for with him it is business The totem is an attraction to the tourists that come here and it is his business to carry tourists. At the same time we appreciate that totem. It is something tangible as a result of the vice-president's visit. It is to be set up in a place that will be picturesque and will be a distinct benefit to the city as well as preserving an interesting relic of the Indians, a life that is fast disappearing.

Resignation Of French Government.

The resignation of the French government is an important event. It ends another socialistic government, and a short-lived one. It indicates that no government can stay long in power unless it is in close touch with the mass of people and the best interests of the country.

The Herriot government stood for capital levy. It was on the point of securing the passage of a measure to bring it about when it went down to defeat. The probability is it was the capital levy that brought about its defeat.

While a capital levy in extreme cases may have many points to commend it, the extremists make no bones about it being only the beginning of a series of levies which will, they hope, eventually wipe capital out of existence except so far as the state is concerned.

To the man who has his capital tied up in bonds it would be an easy matter to meet a levy, but to the big proportion of capitalists who are engaged in promoting industry and whose profits are small it would be a serious burden and would wreck many businesses. Probably fifty per cent of the businesses of the country would go down if a levy were made against them.

Influence Of Personality.

The influence of one person in a group is very large, much larger than is generally suspected. We speak of a good influence or a bad influence without realizing just what it means. One person with a strong personality and a desire for improvement can influence many people, sometimes dozens, sometimes hundreds. On the other hand one person with a degrading tendency will have a degrading effect upon everyone he meets unless his degradation is so marked as to arouse antagonism. A very bad person does not seem to be as bad an influence as the person who is able to associate with those better than himself but who is always dragging them down.

When the poet made one of his characters speak of being a part of everyone he had met he was giving voice to a truth, but what he omitted to state was that he was more a part of the strong personalities than of the weak and that he was more a part of the people he mixed with a great deal than with those he met seldom.

OLD COUNTRY BUILT BOAT

Chelsea First to Come From England For Fishing Fleet

Besides being one of the largest and speediest craft in the American halibut fishing fleet calling at this port, the schooner Chelsea, which was here Saturday after completing her maiden trip, has the distinction of being the first boat in the fleet to have been built in the Old Country. The Chelsea, which was built in Chelsea, England, is owned and skippered by Capt. Ehler. The vessel arrived on the coast this spring having been brought out under her own steam.

The Chelsea attracted a lot of attention on the waterfront Saturday. A sturdy craft of some 90 feet length she has at the same time rather handsome lines. Her comparatively narrow beam gives her great speed from a 120 horse power deisel engine of British make. Her tonnage is 51 and she carries a crew of thirteen men, one of these being Joseph Meagher, well known in local fishing circles.

BIG PAY FOR LUCKY FISHING BOAT LAST WEEK: $612 EACH MAN

(Ketchikan Chronicle)

The highest share per man this season to any fishing vessel was divided to the schooner Daily today on her return from Prince Rupert, where the vessel received 17:90 and 5c for a trip of 37,000 pounds of halibut. Each man shared $612. Chris Rolie is captain of the boat.

The Daily reports encountering some of the coldest weather on the way to the fishing grounds ever experienced in the open sea. Only the high waves, which kept the hull clear of ice, prevented her from icing heavily. They report seeing the Foremost looking like an iceberg, heading for harbor in order to clear herself of the heavy coat of frozen water.

APPROVES TORRY AS MAYOR OF KETCHIKAN

(Ketchikan Chronicle)

Voters of Ketchikan have spoken, incidentally in loud voice and with proper emphasis. Mayor Thomas Torry, for the fifth time is chosen as chief executive of Ketchikan, and it follows as a matter of precedent and in view of his wonderful endorsement that the council will again make him city manager. The vote yesterday, in which Mr Torry was given, within four of twice as many votes as the combined poll of his opponents, is one of the most remarkable stamps of approval ever given any candidate for mayor of any city in Alaska.

ENTICEMENT STORY OF IGNORING CONVENTIONS

Ghost of Past Haunts Married Life of Woman With Unusual Plot

Love is as eternal as the ages. Yet occasionally is found a new interpretation of this all-inclusive term which "like a child around the world doth run."

Such an interpretation was inspired by Clive Arden, the noted English novelist, in her latest and most successful novel, "Enticement," shown here tonight. And this exposition of the strange love of a girl for a man married to another, and the true love she bore her own husband makes a subtle, intriguing and compelling plot for the Thomas H. Ince First National photoplay.

There is none of the old "triangle" situation in "Enticement." The plight of "Leonore" is an unusual one, and one for which she is only partly to blame. The working out of her difficult situation makes an absorbing story, one that compels attention, not only because of the novelty and girl, ignoring conventions and taking life as it comes with a laugh. She forms a friendship with a married man, unhappily married it is true, but married nevertheless. They go alone to the mountains, where the girl is injured in a mountain slide. The man changes, almost instantly, from the friend to the lover. It is the awakening for the girl, her ideal friendship shattered. She flees, trying to forget the man.

Later she marries, and her happy married life is rudely interrupted by the ghost of the mountain trip. Then come the highly dramatic and emotional scenes between the wife, her husband and her companion of the mountains.

With this as a basis, "Enticement" presents a novel and unusual plot. It has audience interest from the start, and there is no slackening of the tempo until the close of the story, when a great sacrifice is made, and two of the three central characters find the happiness they had long sought.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF MARRIED LIFE

"So This is Marriage" Exemplifies Some of the Pitfalls of Matrimony

The picture to be shown here this week "So This is Marriage" exemplifies some of the pitfalls of married life. The following ten commandments of marriage are drawn up as a result:

1—Thou shalt not neglect household or matrimonial duties.
2—Thou shalt not spend above thine income.
3—Thou shalt not accept the attentions of attractive parties of the opposite sex.
4—Thou shalt not bring disgrace upon thy children.
5—Thou shalt avoid disastrous verbal differences.
6—Thou shalt not have secrets—confer with each other on all matters.
7—Thou shalt forgive trivial lapses—both parties must be good sports.
8—Thou shalt not harbor they relatives without first consulting each other.
9—Thou shalt count one hundred—when thou art angry.
10—Thou shalt not bring up memories of the past—let bygones be bygones.

BILIOUS AND SICK HEADACHES ARE CAUSED BY CONSTIPATION

Once you allow your bowels to become constipated you will become troubled with bilious and sick headaches, and for relief you must help your liver to remove the poisonous bile that is circulating in the blood and upsetting the entire biliary system. For this purpose there is no other remedy to equal

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

Mrs. L. G. Nethercott, R. R. No. 1, Crinan, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with constipation, and sick and bilious headaches accompanied with severe vomiting spells which made me very miserable. I tried different remedies, without relief, but since taking Laxa-Liver Pills the headaches and constipation have disappeared, and I am very thankful for what they have done for me."

CHU CHIN CHOW IS OF ARABIAN NIGHTS

Betty Blythe, of "Queen of Sheba" fame, went abroad not long ago to appear in several foreign-made pictures.

"Chu Chin Chow" is a gorgeous film version of the most famous of all spectacles, which played in London five years and three years in America. It is the week end offering here.

It tells an elaborated story of the Arabian nights' legend of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, with a great wealth of big scenes and thrilling action. Herbert Langley, a celebrated English actor, appears in the name role. "Chu Chin Chow," which is a Graham Wilcox production distributed by Metro-Goldwyn, was adapted and directed by Herbert Wilcox.
