SEABIRDS RETURN TO BALTIC BATHING TOWNS

Protection Makes Islands Attractive to Terns and Mews

HAMBURG, Mar. 3.—Efforts to safeguard the bird life on certain islands in the North Sea are resulting successfully. Terns and mews are coming back to the islands of Jordsand, Ellenbogen and Norderoog.

A century ago the Frisian Islands were a paradise for bird life, Naumann, the celebrated ornithologist, described them as having the appearance of a flake of foam floating on the sea because of the great number of mews, terns, dredgers and other birds. But in the meantime the islands have become bathing resorts and throughout the summer are alive with pleasure seekers who have turned them into noisy amusement centers. Until recent years birds' nests were ruthlessly destroyed.

"I want to get a good novel to read in the train—something 'pathetic,' said a woman to a book salesman.

"Let me see. How would 'The Last Days of Pompeii' do?" asked the salesman.

"I'm not quite sure, ma'am," replied the salesman; "some kind of eruption, I believe."

Mrs. N. of Westminster

Something over two year ago Mrs. N. (now living in New Westminster) moved up the coast where fresh milk was unobtainable. She had never tried canned milk, but being compelled to use it decided to try some of every brand. Pacific came first and she says it was a surprise. Then all the others had their opportunity, only to have her come back to Pacific, which she continues to use even after getting back to town.

We are grateful for such letters as Mrs. N's.

No irritation for baby's skin

Do this and keep his clothing soft, pure and comfortable

Nothing is so sensitive as baby's skin! Even the slightest roughness in his diapers, shirts and bands will inflame and irritate it.

Much trouble is directly due to washing diapers with harsh soap—soap containing free alkali. The alkali clings to the little garments in the form of a fine, white powder—almost impossible to rinse out. This causes "diaper rash."

To save baby's skin, use Lux for washing all his clothes. It is the mildest, purest, gentlest cleanser in the world. Lux contains no free alkali, and the pure suds rinse out completely. Lux keeps baby's garments soft, clean, comfortable and safe!

How to wash diapers
Remove solid matter at once and soak diapers in cold water. Whisk two tablespoonfuls of Lux into thick suds in a tub of very hot water. Let diapers soak a few moments, then dip up and down, pressing suds repeatedly through them. Rinse thoroughly in three waters.
