Bongos awaken the admiral

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) —The admiral couldn't sleep, so the judge ruled: No more bongo drums at night.

The order written by municipal Judge Frank Nottsbusch wound up with this admonition: "Let us be quiet from 9 p.m. until 8 a.m. each day, or else."

For retired Rear-Admiral Harold Tiemcoth this constituted a victory of no mean proportion at stake, said he, was his sleep.

Every night, said the admiral the bongo drums drummed until 2 a.m. in Rudy Schoenbeck's restaurant across the alley.

The judge visited the scene when he convicted Schoenbeck of disturbing the peace and gave him a one-year jail sentence, suspended. The moratorium on drums is effective for one year.

Durante says 'marry young' —and does so

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— "I believe every couple should take time to learn each other's faults," says Jimmy Durante.

And that's why, he says, he and Miss Margaret Little dated 15 years and had a four-year engagement in a town known for speedy marriages.

On the other hand, the comedian added Thursday: "I figure ya oughta get married when you're still young."

And thats why, the 67-year-old entertainer said, he and Miss Little, 39, a former actress, are to be wed December 14 in New York City.

"All this fussin' around," the bridegroom-to-be complained. "I just wanted to have a quiet wedding and get it over wit. Now everygody wants to get inta da act."

GERMAN MINISTER — Franz Josef Strauss, West German defence minister, is considered a possible successor to Konrad Adenauer as chancellor. A powerful figure in NATO, he has created diplomatic fears that he may favor pulling West Germany out of the alliance if NATO hesitates to support his ideas on Western defence. — CP Photo
