TOSSED COINS TO DECIDE ON COSTS

Other Instances of Tossing in Order to Settle Disputes

LONDON, Mar. 18. — In the Chancery Court on Thursday a coin was tossed to decide whether plaintiffs should have as costs £300 (heads) or £400 (tails), and tails won. It is a procedure unusual in a court of justice, but on other occasions the impartiality of the spinning coin has been found useful. When in 1908 Lord Ashtown and Lord Farnham secured an equal number of votes as representative peers for Ireland, the Clerk of Parliaments tossed for it, as required by the Act of the Union, and the lot fell to Lord Ashtown. Again, it is only a few years since the immemorial breach between the three branches of the Clan Macdonald was healed on the understanding that when any question of precedence arose the matter should be settled by toss of coin.

Even matters of life and death have been settled in this manner. A New York jury, trying the case of a tramway driver who had run over a girl, tossed up for the verdict. The judge, however, heard of it, and they were severely fined. But perhaps the oddest of all uses of the spun coin was when the Marechal d'Estrees and the Abbe Dessiat tossed up to decide who was to have the honor of being considered the father of the first son of Ninon de l'Enclos.

NAKEDNESS ALLOWED BUT NOT HYGIENIC

Commissar for Peoples' Health Takes Opposite View to Soviet

PRAGUE, Mar. 18.—A report from Moscow tells of an amusing but interesting experiment made by eight members of the Communist Youth Movement—four youths and four girls. These young people, so the story goes, recently appeared in the streets of Moscow in broad daylight in the costume of Adam and Eve, merely wearing blood-red sashes bearing the bold legend: "Away with Shame." Naturally, the appearance of the young people caused a great deal of excitement among the general public, and when they inadvisedly tried to board a tramcar there was a scene, and the police were called in.

It was discovered, however, that the "revolutionaries of naked culture" had a full written permission from the Moscow Soviet to appear in this manner. But the Commissar for Peoples' Health, Semaschko, does not look with a kindly eye on such extravagances, and declares that it is by no means hygienic to wander about the main streets of a capital unclothed.

The Man in the Moon

SAYS:—

A VISITOR met a Prince Rupert citizen the other day and inquired: "Do you know where the Post Office is?" "Go there every day," was the reply, as he stepped briskly off down Third Ave. Now the visitor is wondering if it is wise to ask fool questions.

THE other day a nurse advertised for a position and said salary was a secondary consideration. What has been puzzling me ever since was what was the primary consideration?

NOW that St. Patrick's Day is over and properly celebrated let us try to get back to normal once more.

While they have been having terrible weather conditions in the East for this season of the year, we have been enjoying a salubrious climate and possibly should send a message of commiseration to the prairie folks at their ill fortune. Now all together, let us commiserate!

IT seems about time some statistician figures out how much the rain is worth to Prince Rueprt.

IN Alberta they sometimes near the wolves howl. Here everybody seems to play wolf occasionally.

FROM the movies you learn that "the woman always pays" and some of the men around town have cause to wish it was true.

There once was a girl named St. Pat
Who sure was a bit of a blat.
She wore in her frock
A bit of shamrock
And green stuff covered her hat.

And when at night she went out
To have a bit of a bout,
She tagged on to a man
Like ball player to fan,
You will know this girl I've no doubt.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

March 18, 1915.

The St. Patrick's concert in the Westholme Theatre last night was as usual successful both from the standpoint of entertainment provided and the size of the audience that enjoyed it. Those taking part in the program included the Westholme Orchestra, Principal J. C. Brady, Mr. Evans, Mrs. Scott, Miss Muriel Patmore, J. Roche, Mrs. Chisholm, Mr. Duffy, Mrs. Brady, Mrs. Hemmell, Sergeant Eddy, Miss Nauman, W. H. Fortin and Mr. Oram.

The sailing yacht Adventuress, known here through visits made in the past to the port, picked up a floating mine off the Golden Gate at San Francisco. The discovery caused a sensation.

Consequent on the decision of the legislature to split Prince Rupert district in two creating the new riding of Omineca, the boundaries in the north are being redefined. The eastern boundary of Prince Rupert district will be at Kitwanga.

Did Dad Walk Baby?

Fathers would not have to walk the floor so often with restless babies if mothers insisted on using Baby's Own Soap for baby's bath. This soap cleanses and refreshes and prevents skin irritations and scalding which so often cause bad nights.

And baby smells so sweet after a good rub with the aromatic lather of Baby's Own Soap.

See the Historic St. Lawrence on your voyage to Europe!

To residents of North America no river in the world embraces such wealth of historic romance as the mighty St. Lawrence.

Up its great waters, the brave pioneers of New France travelled on their voyages of discovery and settlement—the renowned Jacques Cartier to found the city of Montreal, nine hundred miles from the sea; the courageous La Salle on his long journey to the Mississippi; the gallant Champlain to found Quebec; the devout Recollet Fathers on their missions to the Indians.

Travelling on the St. Lawrence Route to Europe one starts at Montreal and for two or three days the beauties and historic features of the river pass before one in entrancing panorama. To view them adds immeasurably to the pleasure of the overseas voyage.
