WIFU executives meet in Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Executives of the five Western Interprovincial Football Union teams met here Sunday to discuss 1961 prospects and long-term problems.

Club presidents and general managers were asked to prepare material for the one-day conference, an informal session to formulate policies prior to the annual meeting of the Canadian Football League in Winnipeg next January.

An interlocking schedule with the Big Four, a recurring topic, is expected to be high on the agenda again this year. The idea has long been favored by the west although it has met with a cool reception from members of the eastern division.

Jim Finks, general manager of the Calgary Stampeders, has made it clear he will press for a pre-season exhibition game that would pit the Grey Cup champions against an all-star aggregation of rookies breaking into Canadian professional football ranks from college ranks.

Finks also wanted discussion of an increase in the number of imports eligible to play in any one league game. He is advocating an increase to 16 from 12, while maintaining the alowable total roster at 34.

Other topics are expected to be television contracts for 1961 and pre-season exhibition commitments.

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A bill to curb foreign cartoons and comics in Argentine newspapers has been rejected by the Argentina legislature. Opponents denounced the measure as a restriction of freedom of the press.

IT'S A NEAT TRICK to turn an actor into a bookworm but Barry Morse and Alan King manage it each year when they begin research for their CBC radio series, A Touch of Grease-paint. The program began yesterday on the Trans-Canada network. The two actors are hard at work preparing another season of shows about famous plays and personalities of the theatre.

Many entries

TRONTO (CP)—Racing secretary Anthony Simms announced today he expects a field of at least 14 in next Saturday's renewal of the $50,000 Canadian Championship Stakes at New Woodbine.

The championship, outstanding event of Canada's autumn racing, will be run at one mile and five furlongs over the grass course.

Six horses from United States tracks already are stabled at New Woodbine preparing for the race. Six others are expected to arrive by Tuesday.

The Hasty House Farms, owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reuben, of Toledo, Ohio, has a strong three-horse entry of Merry Top II, Ekaba and Martini II on hand. The Reubens won the Canadian championship with Jack Ketch in 1958 and again last year with Martini II.

Three horses owned by Western Canadians are regarded as certain starters. F. M. Clark of Meadow Lake, Sask, has named his good Canadian-bred Major Turley. Max Bell of Calgary is expected to start a two-horse entry of Tall Chief II and Lustrous Hope. The latter is an English three-year old which ran in this year's Epsom Derby.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Some of the plays made by top players look like magic to the uninitiated. Actually many of them are simplicity itself.

They are based on a sort of magic—the magic key to expert play—counting a hand as it is played.

Anybody can learn to do this but many never take the trouble.

In today's deal Mrs. Keen won the first trick with the queen of hearts. She continued with the jack and her partner overtook with the king and played the ace.

Mr. Masters ruffed the third lead of hearts with the king of spades and took three rounds of trumps.

Mr. Masters

He then led a club and Mr. Meek won with the ace and returned the suit. Mr. Masters won the second club with dummy's king and cashed the queen.

So far the play had been routine. The defenders had their book and somehow Mr. Masters had to avoid losing a diamond.

The normal play of that suit would be to cash dummy's king, then lead a low diamond from the board and finesse the jack.

Mr. Masters didn't go for that losing play.

Instead he led the deuce to his ace. When the ten dropped on his right he spread his cards, announcing that he was taking the marked finesse against Mr. Meek's queen.

This was no show-off play but a simple mathematical certainty. Mr. Masters had merely counted the hand.

The bidding:

1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: Queen of hearts.

At trick three Mr. Meek had shown out of hearts. Therefore Mrs. Keen had started with six hearts.

She had followed suit to three rounds of spades and to three rounds of clubs.

Thus twelve of her cards were known. Her thirteenth card had to be either a fourth club or a singleton diamond.

If she had a fourth club, then all of the outstanding diamonds were in Mr. Meek's hand and there was no play for the contract.

But if she had one diamond and that diamond was the queen or the ten, there was a play for ten tricks.

That is why Mr. Masters' first diamond play was a low one to his ace. When the ten appeared on his right, his jack and nine became equals to surround and capture the queen.

There was absolutely no danger that Mrs. Keen had the queen with her ten, because the play of the hand had shown that she had twelve cards in the other three suits.
