BEWARE PROPAGANDA

We have more than once warned our readers against believing all they hear on the American radio. Yet we all listen and often believe. Here is what J. N. Kelly of the Vancouver Sun has to say about it:

"The 'Lord Haw Haws' of the American air lanes had a field day over the week-end holding post-mortems over the British 'defeat' in Norway and extolling the invincibility of the Nazi war machine. And, of course, they emphasized what Mussolini would do to the Allies should he unleash his 'dogs of war' in the Mediterranean.

"It is one of the paradoxes of this war that the radio mouthpieces of the United States, who constantly warn their listeners against propaganda, particularly British, should succumb so easily to the sop handed out by Dr. Goebbels in Berlin.

"The truth about the Allied actions in Norway probably will not be known until after the war. Even if we have suffered a setback there is no need to accept the versions of the gloom-dispensers of the United States.

"These fire-side Napoleons tell us that it is not the "defeat" that counts but the effect on the morale of neutrals; that now we are 'losing' the war these nations will get on the Nazi 'bandwagon.'

"Don't let us delude ourselves into believing we are going to win this war without suffering reverses. If we do, we are going to have some rude shocks. The British government and noticeably Winston Churchill, warned us to be prepared for the worst and to expect our share of bad news.

"Outside of the unspactacular but nevertheless effective blockade of Germany, the war is hardly started .The Allied armies are still intact and command of the seas is secure.

"If anyone is inclined to be pessimistic about the progress of this war they should compare the happenings of the first eight months of the first Great War and the course of this conflict to date."

YANKS IN BASEMENT

NEW YORK, May 9: (CP) — The world champion New York Yankees dropped into exclusive possession of the cellar in the American League yesterday when they were beaten again by the Cleveland Indians. Hard pressed by the Indians, the Boston Red Sox stayed in first place as a result of a hard fought victory over the Detroit Tigers who are also making a strong early season bid for the league supremacy and are now in third place. For the time-being, at least, the race is between the Red Sox, the Indians and the Tigers. The Philadelphia Athletics downed the St. Louis Browns in a free-hitting affair and went into fourth place while the Chicago White Sox won from Washington Senators to rejoin St. Louis in a tie for second division leadership.

In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds lost to the Boston Bees, thus relieving the pressure upon the first place Brooklyn Dodgers whose game at Chicago with the Cubs was rained out. The New York Giants downed the Pittsburgh Pirates to remain in third place while the Cubs stayed in fourth place with the Bees approaching close behind. St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Phillies and took over the lead of the second division.
