Banks Hold Up Well - - -

The Bank of Montreal, the business of which is typical of Canadian banks generally, shows that, while the profits under war conditions have fallen off slightly, they still will be in a position to pay to shareholders the usual dividends and keep liquid assets on hand sufficient to meet all calls. As a result of war conditions, the liquid assets have dropped slightly and so has the amount deposited with the Bank of Canada. Deposits too are slightly down. The bank conditions seems to indicate that Canada is not yet feeling the war strain but is holding her own well.

Becoming Accustomed - - -

Letters and radio announcers tell us that people are becoming accustomed to conditions as they obtain in Great Britain today. In Prince Rupert we are becoming accustomed to reading the news of bombing and fighting and we no longer become excited about it. If it is only plain bombing with the Greeks advancing in Albania we say there is no news. In London pretty soon people will hardly be able to sleep without air raid warnings and occasional bomb explosions.

Basketball Buzz

In addition to the feature game between the visiting Port Simpson team and the Savoy Hotel of the local senior league, there will be a full card of basketball activity at the Exhibition Hall tonight and a program of general interest has been arranged. Bea's News Stand and McClymont Park will meet in a Junior game, High School and McClymont Park in a Girls' League game and Co-Ops and Scythians in the International League. The Port Simpson team arrived at noon today.

COMEDY IS DELIGHTFUL

"Three Cheers For Irish" is Feature at Capitol Theatre Tonight

"Three Cheers for the Irish," rollicking story of a retired New York policeman who is persuaded to run for alderman and learns that pounding a city beat is a much simpler task," is the feature picture for this afternoon and evening at the Capitol Theatre here.

Priscilla Lane, Dennis Morgan and Thomas Mitchell have the leading roles and are given support by Alan Hale, William Lundigan, Irene Hervey, Virginia Grey, Frank Jenks and Henry Armetta.

Peter Casey, played by Thomas Mitchell, is assisted in his election campaign by his three charming daughters. One becomes a little too ambitious and accepts campaign funds from the town's most notorious gambler. Then the youngest daughter falls in love with a young policeman. In spite of various complications, however, Alan Hale, as the campaign manager, with the help of Casey's hundreds of friends, manages to get the popular policeman elected to office.

Prevalent throughout the film is a pleasant family atmosphere and the picture is said to be one that will delight the hearts of all who go to see it, particularly those who have a warm spot for the Irish.

If you want something, advertise for it. Hundreds of people get what they want that way. (tf)
