ROAD NEEDED TO ELEVATOR

At the meeting of the board of trade last night P. M. Ray of the Hecate Straits Towing Company drew attention to the need of a road to the elevator. Ships coming there would have to be provisioned and it would be difficult getting to them by water.

F. G. Dawson said the city and the railway were getting together in regard to the matter.

J. H. Pillsbury said it would take time to build the road and it should be done with the least possible delay.

M. P. McCaffery was appointed to take the matter up with the city and the railway company.

QUO VADIS PICTURE WAS STAGED IN ROME

Most Realistic Picture Ever Made is to be Shown Tonight

The picture Quo Vadis, which was to have been shown here last night but did not arrive is to be shown tonight, is said to be the most realistic ever seen here.

The picture was staged in Rome on the actual scenes of Nero's tyrannies during his cruel reign in the middle of the first century. To get proper realism it is said that the producers obtained permission of the Italian government to rehabilitate many of the ruins of ancient Rome—the Palatine, Circus Maximus and others. These rehabititations, of course, were merely temporary, and were removed immediately following the completion of the scenes, in order that the ruins might remain in their classic contact.

But the pictured effect is said to be the most realistic ever camerized. The Rome that ruled the world lives again. Nero, the tyrant, as cruel and inhuman as he was vain, casts beautiful slave girls to the fishes to delight his banquet guests; burns Rome that he may gain inspiration for his insipid verses; and turns half-famished, raging lions upon the Christians to hide his incendiarism.

Softening the deeds of the emperor's inhumanities is the tender love story of Vinicius and Lygia, and the supreme faith of the Christians, who face the most terrible deaths rather than yield their beliefs to their pagan persecutors.

Emil Jennings, noted for his characterizations in "Passion," "Deception" and others, has the role of Nero and is said to have achieved the pinnacle of artistry in its portrayal. He is supported by a cast of 20,000 men, women and children.

CITY WITHOUT ANY FLAPPERS

Assistant Overseer of Zion City Would Establish Another in B.C.

VICTORIA, Oct. 3. — It was Henry Drummond who wrote of a city without a church but Charles Caldwell, formerly of Stewart, well known throughout British Columbia, proposes to establish in this province a city without a flapper. It is to be a branch of the famous Zion City established by the "apostle" Dowie, where smoking, drinking, swearing, lipsticks, short skirts and immodesty are banned.

C. F. Caldwell is assistant to the head overseer of Zion City.

Mr. Caldwell was known in British Columbia in the early days as one of the leading mining men of the interior, and later of Stewart. He became converted, however, and joined the faithful at Zion. His abilities as a talker resulted in his rise in the organization and he became assistant overseer to the great John Alexander Dowie.

He says a branch of the Zion colony would do well in British Columbia and would do this country a lot of good and it has been his worldly ambition to lead out from the old flock the nucleus of a new colony here. He is at present looking over general conditions in the province.

HIJACKED A CAR OF LIQUOR HE SHIPPED

Authorities Looking for Man who Fleeced Seattle Businessmen on Illegal Deal

SEATTLE, Oct. 3.—Prohibition Administrator Lyle is searching for a Seattle man who fleeced four businessmen out of $10,000 put up by them to finance the smuggling of a freight car of liquor from British Columbia.

The authorities seized the car here two weeks ago.

The man obtained more than $2,000 from each businessman and then went to Canada and succeeded in getting 276 sacks of liquor concealed in a freight car, billed as shingles.

When the car arrived at Granite Falls, 50 miles north of here, the man unloaded all but six sacks and then sent the car to Seattle. It is presumed he intended to tell his associates that the car had been hijacked while standing on the tracks.

The authorities found six sacks and a large space between the shingles where the hijacked cargo had been.

Emil Jannings
— in —
'Quo Vadis'

A gigantic, glittering spectacle depicting the splendors and barbarities of ancient Rome. A kaleidoscopic photo-drama, with a cast of 20,000 headed by Emil Jannings, in which may be seen the golden glories of a Roman banquet, the luxuries, the wine and song, the beautiful women, etc.

Nero fiddled whilst Rome was burning.

Nero laughed whilst Christian martyrs, made into human torches, lighted his gardens as flaming pillars. Many beautiful girls are thrown to the lions, many are thrown into the pools to feed fishes for the imperial tables.

There are gladiatorial contests, chariot races and a terrific battle between a huge slave and an infuriated bull, in which the bull's neck is snapped.

Magnificent scenery and settings, 300 Arabian horses, 150 African lions, 3 untamed bulls, hordes of other animals, charioteers, horsemen, martyrs, slave girls, vestal virgins, guards, etc., etc.

Huge cast of principals: Bruto Castellani, Andree Habay, Alphonse Fryland, Rina De Liguoro, Elena De Sangro, Lillian Hall Davis as Lygia, whose beauty moved the crowd to mercy, and Emil Jannings as Nero, the worst of the Caesars.
