NEWS NOTES OF THE GREAT WEST

The rumor that the passenger station at Coquitlam would be moved from its present site has been denied by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. He assured the delegation which waited on him that the station would not be moved.

Lzaak Laurilla, who was admitted to the Vancouver General Hospital the other day, claims that he was refused entry to the Spokane hospital by the customs house officials of the United States on the grounds that he might become a public charge. He was injured in the Lucky Jim mine near Nelson, and attempted to go to Spokane for treatment. He was compelled to make the journey to Vancouver for care and the delay in having his eyes attended to may lose him his sight.

Four cases of infantile paralysis have been reported at Toronto. Two deaths have occurred. An order of the Health Act, recently passed makes it compulsory to report such cases.

Three million bushels of last year's grain crop is still stored in the elevators at Fort William awaiting shipment. Already the new crop is crowding for space.

Chief of Police Bradshaw, of New Westminster demands that every recruit to the police force be a total abstainer. Many ex-soldiers and competent men have been refused because they admitted taking an occasional drink.

Vancouver raised $6000 in a single day to pay off the mortgage of the Children's Aid Society home.

Agassiz, B. C., has just closed the most successful fair ever held in that district. The produce and exhibits of cattle and horses were particularly fine.

New Westminster capitalists are planning the erection of a mammoth ice rink, on which to play the Pacific Coast series of hockey matches.

The Railway Commission has ordered the railway company to erect and maintain a station at Salmon Arm, B.C., suitable for the accommodation of freight and passenger service. The work must be completed by January.

The peach crop in the Okanagan this season was phenomenally large, but owing to the scarcity of pickers hundreds of tons of fruit rotted on the ground.

The Salvor, the wrecking steamer of the B. C. Salvage Company, Esquimalt, started operations this week on the raising of the steamer Newport, of the Pacific Mail Line, which sank last month when the wharf at Balboa where she was moored gave way, toppling several great pieces of machinery on her.

According to constitutional lawyers, a flaw in the constitution of Holland may prevent that country from ever having a king again. The throne must be occupied by a queen.

The cabinet at Ottawa have not yet considered the date for Thanksgiving, but it will probably be on Monday, October 21st.

Germany is considering the advisability of boycotting the Panama-Pacific exposition. If Wilson is elected, the Germans will participate.

The Attorney General of New South Wales says that as far as he knows there is no method of keeping the beef trust out of Australia. It is estimated that if the beef combine gets a hold in that country the increased meal charges will amount to $75,000 pounds.

Many Bulgarians, resident in Eastern Canada, are getting ready to leave for their home country to help fight against the Turks.

A special commission of prominent divines from the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches are discussing at Toronto the best means for bringing about a rapid union of their respective denominations.

Before you go to the theatre go to the E. E. Confectionery for fresh made candies.

At the Theatre

The Allen Players concluded their eight days' engagement at the Westholme Opera House last evening, producing as their final bill the famous domestic drama, "The Great Divide," in which Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin starred for a long time with such great success. The clever stock company presented the play in a most finished and effective manner, both as regards acting and stage effect.

Miss Verna Felton and Mr. J. L. Mitchell played the two leads in an earnest and thoroughly convincing way that stamped them as artists of high merit, the advantage of their youth giving promise of a bright future for both of them. The other characters, necessarily of a minor nature in a play of this kind, were all filled most satisfactorily by the several members of the company. Miss Gladys Hudars, who sang during the entr' acte, was received with rounds of applause, her voice never being heard to finer advantage. The popular Hungarian orchestra rendered the incidental music with their usual pleasing effect.

The company, which has afforded a most enjoyable week's entertainment to Prince Rupertites during a somewhat dull season have made a number of friends in the city, and many regrets are expressed at their having to leave, and a most hearty welcome is assured them when, as the months roll by, the time will arrive when they will be able to pay us another visit.
