In Prince Rupert Too . . .

Announcing that half of more than ten million dollars worth of real estate which twenty years ago had reverted to the city for taxes was now back on the tax roll following private purchase, City Commissioner John Hodgson of Edmonton says that tax forfeited property, once the source of endless worry to the city administration, has now become one of the city's greatest assets—a reservoir yielding large sums annually for current financing and improvements. Prince Rupert's experience in accumulating tax-forfeited property paralleled Edmonton's. Signs are not lacking today that, like Edmonton, this very same property may before long become a real asset to Prince Rupert, helping to pay debts if not to finance necessary civic work.

The first marriage to take place in the new St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Fifth Avenue and McBride Street was the pretty and interesting ceremony which united a well known and popular local Norwegian young couple in the persons of Miss Elsie Giske, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Giske, and Leading Seaman Peter Husoy of the Royal Canadian Navy ,eldest son of the late Lief Husoy and Mrs. Husoy. The church hall, where the nuptials were solemnized, was crowded with friends of the couple. the altar was draped with white silk and rosebuds and white and pink streamers with spring flowers adorned the hall. Rev. J. H. Myrwang officiated.

The bride was a pretty picture in her wedding gown of white satin, Princess style, with veil and coronet of orange blossoms. Given in marriage by her father, after the bridal party had entered the hall to the strains of the Wedding March played by Peter Lien, she carried a shower bouquet of red rosebuds.

The bridesmaid, Miss Amy Giske sister of the bride, was dainty in turquoise net lace over silk with flowered hat to match and bouquet of pink carnations.

Leading Seaman Robert Eby acted as groomsman.

During the rites, selections were rendered by the Varden Singers.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Commodore Cafe with about seventy - five guests present to extend their best wishes and felicitations to the happy couple who received under a wedding bell of white with pink and white streamers.

There was a splendid wedding breakfast during which the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Myrwang with the groom responding. Paul Stegavig proposed the toast to the bridesmaid to which the groomsman responded. There were other speakers.

The bride was assisted in cutting her cake by Mrs. Dan Larsen.

Dancing until 3 a.m. to the strains of Mrs. Jean DeCarlo's orchestra rounded out the happy evening.

Both bride and groom came out from Norway fifteen years ago travelling with their families on the same ship. Both attended school here. The bride has been on the staff of the Prince Rupert General Hospital.

The groom is at present on leave from his duties out of Halifax with the Royal Canadian Navy and will be returning to service in about ten days' time.
