BOIVIN NOT GUILTY SAYS V. PROVINCE

Newspaper Editorially Declares, Though Mentioned By Stevens, Minister Was Without Stain.

The Vancouver Province says: The death of Hon. G. H. Boivin, minister of customs in the Mackenzie King ministry, will throw a pall, for the moment, over the election activities of both parties. Mr. Boivin was a central figure in the contest, and his sudden passing, tragic in the extreme as it was, can not but have its influence upon the balance of the campaign.

Mr. Boivin's department was most in the limelight during the past session of Parliament, and he was the only member of the King government specifically mentioned in the Stevens amendment to the customs committee's report. But it was plain, during the debate, that though the Conservatives spoke strongly against the minister, they had a good deal of sympathy for his position, and Mr. Meighen even went so far as to express his regret at the necessity of voting against him. The motion in which he was named was a motion of censure. But there was no suggestion that it reflected in the slightest degree on the minister's personal honor or integrity. And no one ever seriously believed that Mr. Boivin had anything to do with the customs scandals. He came into office at an unfortunate time, and had to bear the weight of the sins of the government and of his predecessor. That was all. His motive in interfering with the course of justice in Moses Assize case was clear enough—to aid his party—and he himself attributed his mistake to inexperience.

Mr. Boivin was one of the youngest as he was one of the ablest members of the King ministry. There is no doubt, he was one of the principal hopes of the Liberal party, and, had he lived, the incident of the customs scandal need not have proven any serious barrier to his progress. Both Liberals and Conservatives will be sorry to learn of his death.

FIRST BATCH HARVESTERS

Men Being Hurried to Prairies Where Grain Cutting is Under Way

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11—The first batch of laborers from the Maritimes are now on their way west over Canadian National lines via Quebec and Cochrane to help garner the crop in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where cutting is getting well under way this week. Special trains left the Atlantic region of the system on Monday and Tuesday destined for Winnipeg, from whence the men will be re-ticketed by a special staff at the C.N.R. station to points on the prairies, where they are needed immediately for harvest work.

WOMAN TAKES PART IN BOXING ARRANGEMENTS

Carries on Work of Promoter When Her Superior is Away and Does Good Work.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 11—Make way for the ladies! It isn't uncommon nowadays for prize fight crowds to have a liberal sprinkling of women spectators, but Miss Veronica Sullivan, of this city, goes them one better. She takes an active part in matching up the boxers.

It is not a mere hobby, either. She takes it in grim earnest, because that is the way she makes her living. A demure young woman, Miss Sullivan holds down the job of secretary to C. P. Dodge, fight promoter. The job means something more to her than transcribing his letters and looking after the office routine. She has made it her business to learn all about match making, pugilists and managers. So well has she conned her lessons that she is perfectly capable of taking prompt action in an emergency.

Proof of this was given a while ago when Mr. Dodge had a long siege in a hospital. That was before he came to Worcester. He was associated with the Crescent Club at Lowell and his illness came in the midst of a busy season. Boxers and managers were worried, but Miss Sullivan rose to the occasion. She went right ahead with all arrangements, closed deals with managers and dealt tactfully with the fighters. The bouts went on as usual. Miss Sullivan has became an expert in judging the merits of individual boxers.

IN GOOD OLD TIMES ROUGE WAS BANNED AS BACHELOR LURE

PARIS, Aug. 11.—There is still a law on the French statute books although not enforced, that imposes a penalty on women who beguile men into marriage by means of rouge, powder, perfumes and similar feminine aids.

"Whosoever attracts into the bonds of marriage any male subject of His Majesty, by means of rouge or powder, perfumes, false teeth, false hair, steel corsets, hooped petticoats, high heels or false hips, will be prosecuted for sorcery and the marriage will be declared null and void, if the accused is convicted."

This law, passed by the parliament of 1770, is still on the French statute books and could be used by a present day complainant. It seems to show that the mere man of King Louis XV.'s time had some protection from the wiles of the woman who resorted to artificial means to win a husband. Even the introduction of the new civil code in 1804 left it in force, under the section dealing with "fraud in the quality of merchandise."

BEES CONTESTED RIGHT OF POSTMAN

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 10.—The postal authorities of Armagh recently won a fight to collect a lone letter in a box at Girvan's Bridge over the protests of a swarm of bees that had taken refuge there. The battle was only won after a "mass attack" by the authorities under cover of smoke clouds.

When the postman attempted to collect the solitary letter he encountered the swarm of bees and hastily retreated with his head in his post bag. He reported the difficulty at headquarters and was ordered to make a fresh attack. This time the bees were in earnest and instead of picking up the letter the postman picked up five stings, which drove him off.

Again the postal authorities refused to admit themselves beaten. Reinforcements were called to carry out the final smoke attack which was successful and the letter was sent on its way.

"How do you do," I said, on accosting him.

"Do vot?" he asked.

"I mean how do you find yourself?"

"Saire, I never lose myself."

"You don't understand me: I mean how do you feel?"

"How do I feel? Oh, I feels smooth, you just feel me."
