Salmon Pack For Present Year Is Almost Complete — Tribute to Dr. H. N. Brocklesby — Halibut Fishing Completely Over

The canned salmon pack for the British Columbia coast this season amounts to 1,348,201½ cases as compared with 1,668,418 cases in 1941. The Skeena River pack is 316,552½ cases as against 361,080 cases in 1941 and the Naas River pack 52,268½ cases compared with 35,694 cases. The sockeye pack for the whole coast this year has been 626,908 cases as against 454,094 cases in 1941. The Skeena River sockeye pack was 57,562 cases this year as compared with 110,332 cases a year ago. This year's pink pack on the Skeena was 145,115 cases compared with 73,901 cases a year ago. Pack for other varieties on the Skeena this year were: springs, 7,302 cases; steelheads, 4,655 cases; cohoes, 70,658½ cases; chums, 32,260 cases. These figures are not quite but almost complete for the entire season.

The Fisheries Research Board of Canada, in its latest progress report, pays tribute to Dr. H. N. Brocklesby on the occasion of his resignation from the service of the board. The acknowledgment of Dr. Brocklesby's resignation is as follows:

"Dr. H. N. Brocklesby, F.I.C, F.R.S.C., F.C.I.C., terminated on September 19 his services as Chief Chemist on the staff of the Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station to assume the position of Director of Research of the Farallone Division of the Bordon Co., Pier 92, San Francisco, California. After first becoming associated with the Fisheries Research Board of Canada (then Biological Board of Canada) as a summer worker at the Pacific Biological Station, Nanaimo, B.C., Dr. Brocklesby joined the staff of the Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station at Prince Rupert in September, 1926, as chemist. An indefatigable research worker himself, he and a succession of associates during the past sixteen years have contributed much to the knowledge of the chemistry, technology and commercial applications of fishery products, particularly oils and vitamins. It was from the chemical laboratories of the Prince Rupert Station, under Dr. Brocklesby's supervision, that attention was first drawn in 1927 to the vitamin content of B.C. dogfish liver oil; investigations of the pharmaceutical and commercial utilizations of pilchard and other fish oils followed, and in 1930-31 he and his associates were instrumental in calling attention to the high vitamin A and D potencies of the liver oil from the Pacific coast halibut. In 1933 the Board published a widely-accepted Bulletin (No.37) entitled "The Industrial Chemistry of Fish Oils with Particular Reference to those of British Columbia," written jointly by Dr. Brocklesby and O. F. Denstedt. The publication of this Bulletin led to recognition of the Station as a centre of research on marine oils and several further lines of investigation were followed by Dr. Brocklesby, including methods for obtaining the maximum amount of oil and vitamins from fish, their livers and other organs; the stabilization of such oils, and the development of useful industrial products through various processings. To incorporate advances made in these fields at the Station and elsewhere, a larger Bulletin (No. 59) entitled "The Chemistry and Technology of Marine Animal Oils with Particular Reference to those of Canada" was published in 1941 with Dr. Brocklesby as editor and chief contributor from the staff. Recently Dr. Brocklesby has been engaged in some research on production of vitamin A oils and their direct application in the war effort. The loss of Dr. Brocklesby's services as an employee of the Fisheries Research Baord will be keenly felt even though in his new position he will not be entirely disassociating himself from Canadian industries. It is not anticipated that an appointment to the position of Chief Chemist on the Station staff will be made for the present. The Director and other members of the Station's chemical staff will carry on Dr. Brocklesby's work for the time being. We extend to "Brock" every wish for success in his new endeavour, as well as to Miss Norma Rogers, Senior Technician in Chemistry, who has also resigned and will be associated with him in his new laboratories.

Halibut fishing for the 1942 season is now completely over. Now permits for incidental halibut fishing have also expired, their issuance having been terminated this week.

SPY FILM EXCITING

"Dangerously They Live" Coming To Capitol at First of Week

Timely and exciting story of a boy and girl who become involved in the machinations of an enemy spy ring, "Dangerously They Live," starring John Garfield, Nancy Coleman and Raymond Massey, comes as the feature offering to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here at the first of next week—Monday and Tuesday.

Pitted against the boy and girl are Raymond Massey, as a brilliant and famous psychiatrist, and Moroni Olsen, as a wealthy business man, both of whom are working for the fifth column.

The story is built up around the activities of a spy ring who want to get information in regard to the movements of ships laden with cargo for Great Britain. After many exciting experiences the pair not only foil an enemy plot but get word to British intelligence of the exact location of the German submarines.

Besides Garfield, Miss Coleman, Massey and Olsen, the featured cast includes Esther Dale, Lee Patrick, Christian Rub, Roland Drew, Frank Reicher and others.
