OLOF HANSON ON BIG TOUR

Tells Rotary Club of Recent Trip Through Panama Canal to West Indies

There were many things interested Olof Hanson, president of the Board of Trade, on a recent visit to the West Indies going by way of California and the Panama Canal and returning from New York, Montreal and Ottawa. He told the Rotary Club about the trip at the luncheon yesterday and ended by making an appeal to them to help secure the passing of the bylaw giving the elevator free taxation

in Calm Waters

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson went south from Victoria on one of the Admiral liners and the water was calm all the way, and also for the rest of the trip to Havana, Cuba. He spent a couple of weeks driving out from San Francisco before sailing from San Francisco and again a day or two at San Diego on the way south. He told of visiting Petaluma with its nine million chickens, most of them white, of seeing the giant redwoods, of escaping vaccination, of calls at Costa Rica, Salvador, Balbao and Panama. He was interested in the old buildings in Panama City commenced in the fifteenth century and finished a couple of hundred years later. The people there speak Spanish and seem to be mostly half breeds but they treat the tourists well and give them a good time.

Going through the canal was interesting with its four locks upward and three down. Each can take a ship 1,000 feet long and 110 feet wide. Only once was its capacity taxed and that was when a British war ship went through allowing only eighteen inches on either side.

Havana

Havana, Cuba, was one of the sights. It is a city of 600,000, yet the main streets are built two storeys high, the shops on the ground floor and the owners living on the floor above. The verandas jut out over the sidewalk and on these at night the families assemble. On the streets many of the children are quite naked. Most of the stores sell whiskey and beer. Even this did not keep Mr. Hanson in town for he says he and Mrs. Hanson drove 280 miles over good roads built with cheap labor instigated by American energy. It was very hot and nowhere in the south does Mr. Hanson think would be suitable for northerners to live.

Business took Mr. Hanson's time at New York, Montreal and Ottawa. At the Canadian capital he says he found Fred Stork on the job and with him he took up with the Government the question of waterfront facilities here and he is of opinion that Prince Rupert's views will be met. He also was interested in the elevator and was there while some of the negotiations were going on.

Snowstorm

Back in the States at Chicago he ran into a big snowstorm and found it almost impossible to get about in Chicago. Even by taking a taxi it took 35 minutes to travel two blocks owing to the snow blockade.

Returning to Prince Rupert, Mr. Hanson found the levator question again to the front and is very keen that no stumbling block shall be placed in the way of the elevator deal. He says he hopes to see the tax exemption bylaw passed by the biggest majority ever given a bylaw.

In The Letter Box

CITY POLICING.

Editor Daily News.

With reference to Rev. Mr. Hacker's letter re "Cleaning up the City."

There seems to be a misapprehension as to the necessity of the Council submitting a bylaw for the purpose of turning over the policing of the city to the province. The city council is given this power under an amendment to the Police and Prisons Regulation Act passed last year, which requires no such bylaw.

With respect to the non-enforcement of the law, I would point out that at the various meetings of the Police Commission held last year, and at two of the meetings which have been held since January, 1926, the Police Commission, unanimously, have pressed for law enforcement.

Financial Limitations

The police force in this city is not as large as perhaps the citizens would desire, financial conditions rendering this limitation necessary, and in view of this, and in view of the fact that Rev. Mr. Hacker and others appear to be possessed of special information, of which I have not been informed, I would welcome any assistance from him, or any committee which he or others might suggest, in aiding in the better enforcement of the law.

General criticisms may be advantageous, but specific and definite information is the only thing that counts when the suspected are to be charged in open court.

Particularly is this the case insofar as womanhood is concerned.

Must be Proven

It is one thing to suspect, but another thing to prove. Why? Because the patron, most usually, will not peach. The police can suspect, but oftentimes cannot prove.

Hence the difficulty of keeping the city as perfect as it might be.

If an improvement can be brought about by means of well-meaning citizens co-operating with the authorities, then lets try it.

S. M. NEWTON,
Chairman Police Commission.

LETTER TO BILL.

Dear Bill:

The Editor kindly delivered your letter. Your literary efforts are wonderful! Congratulations! Webster would be proud of you.

Evidently Bill, your feathers are ruffled. The citizens understood my statements, without any added explanations. People who accept public positions should give the citizens the best service possible whether it be in the delivery of sound, clean morals or substantial and clean streets. This is what the citizenes expect of the council and evidently the council are taking the matter somewhat seriously.

A great responsibility rests on your shoulders and those of your fellow commissioners. You have undertaken to do certain work for the citizens and council. Evidently both are dissatisfied. Now Bill, get out your broom and clean up the down town section. By the way Bill, don't forget your axe. "Hew to the line and let the chips fly where they will." This will make your friends even more proud of you.

Sincerely,
GEO. G. HACKER

RUPERT MILK SUPPLY.

Editor Daily News.

In yesterday's issue I read with particular interest a small paragraph referring to the testing of all local cows for tuberculosis. For the sake of our children this should be of very vital interest to all families in Prince Rupert, but surely we are not going to be content to have one small angle dealt with. At present the said local cows number about twelve, all in one barn, and surely we do not imagine the health of our children is altogether in the hands of that one owner. It seems to me, that milk, the children's best food, is getting very slight consideration in this city. We want a few cows tested which supply a mere handful of our population, while the main source of supply, which is Telkwa, Woodcock, and Bulkley Valley generally is not even mentioned. What about the health of the cows there and in what conditions are the farms and farm buildings up there? How is the milk handled in our dairies here and is the delivery service all that it should be? It may all be perfect but if not I do not think the testing of a few cows will help us to get what I feel sure most of us want—pure, clean, wholesome milk for our children.

Thanking you, I remain,

YOU can judge a man by the silence he keeps.

ONE does not mind a man talking when he has nothing to say if he talks brilliantly.

ONE consoling thing for the poor is that the rich are likely to find their way to hell.

LET'S all go to the tennis club ball tonight and watch them do the Charleston.

YOU can tell a married man. He never takes rice pudding when he is away from home.

WHEN a man blames his wife, you may be pretty sure he is a trouble maker.

ABSENCE makes the heart grow fonder but not too much absence. It palls in time.

A PROPOSAL to kill off the feeble minded may be all right, but I shudder to think what would happen if they started the game here.

I HAD a lovely baby girl
My heart was all a-flutter
I named her Olemargarine
For I hadn't any but her.

THE other day there was a man with acidity and emphasis called his erstwhile friend a blankety blank phonograph record. After a few moments of thought I realized that he must have meant two-faced.

THE season of sunshine is here,
When the baseball bat comes out
And the boy goes out on the vacant lot
And gives the ball a clout.

Yes, this is the season of outdoors,
When boats are painted neat,
And all the boys and all the girls
At the lake or beaches meet.
