LONG ROUNDS FOR MEDICO

Labrador Doctor Exhausts Three Dog Teams Every Winter

MONTREAL (CP)—Does winter make you long for the warm, bright sunshine which tans the skin of southerners? If it does, just think of Labrador's "Man of Mercy" and you'll be quite satisfied with the so-called cold winters of Canada's city zone.

Dr. Tony Paddon, former lieutenant-commander in the Royal Canadian Navy, will soon hitch up his dog team—he sometimes wears out three dog teams during one season—and make his 1,000-mile winter "tour" of rough country to visit his estimated 2,500 "patients" scattered in outposts of Labrador.

The doctor, born in Labrador 33 years ago, is the son of the late Dr. Henry Paddon, who worked in co-operation with Sir Wilfred Grenfell on the Labrador coast for more than 40 years.

Riding by sled for a month, at times for distances of 400 to 700 miles between stations without meeting any human being, he lives mostly on bread and tea. Always provided with emergency rations, he has never gone hungry for any length of time.

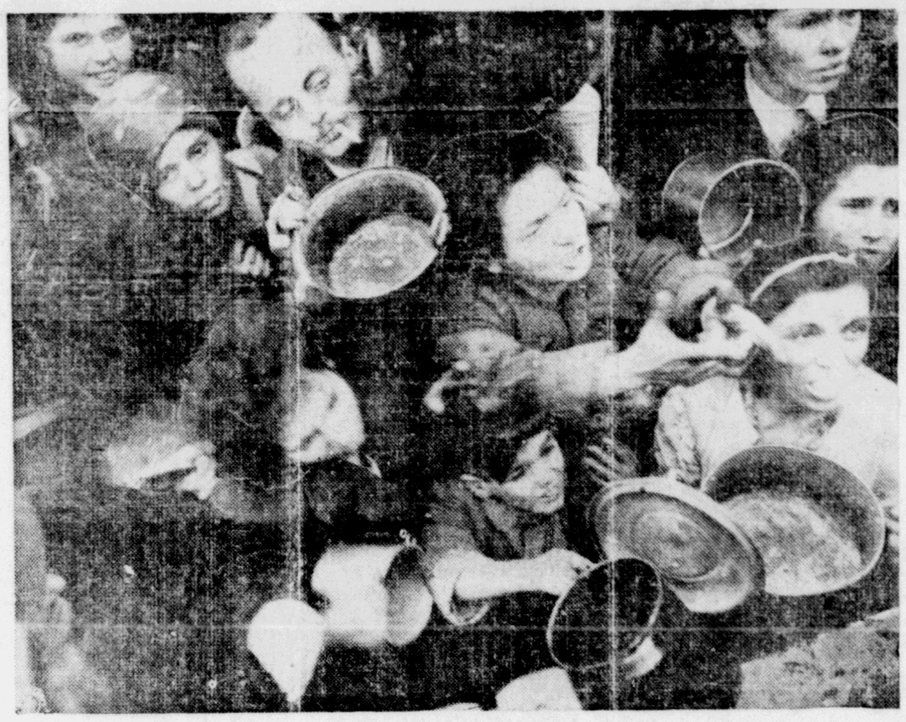
During the Second World War, Dr. Paddon served as a ship's surgeon. Now posted at the Grenfell Mission, where he is in charge of all medical work, he has visited Montreal to lecture to medical classes. In summertime he cruises along the coast aboard the hospital ship Maraval.

One of his most gruelling experiences was the time his guide became snow-blind.

"He lay on the sleigh for a month as we travelled, and listened as I described the terrain, and he told me what to do and where to go. His knowledge of the country was uncanny."

SHIPS and—WATERFRONT

Popular veteran chief steward of the British Columbia Coast Steamship Service's northern runs, Joe Knott is now aboard the steamer Princess Norah which is on its fortnightly voyage to Alaska this week. For some years he has been serving as chief on the Princess Louise and expects to be back on that vessel again when she gets back on the northern run in the spring.



If it's soup at all, it's water-thin for more than 400 million children in Europe and Asia. To purchase food and clothing the Canadian Appeal for Children seeks to collect $10 million. This money will be spent in Canada and the goods shipped overseas. Nor is education being neglected. Tools for learning—pencils, chalk, books and paper—will be sent to these children.

BERMUDA AIR SERVICE MOOTED

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)— A new freight shipping service between Canada and Bermuda is under consideration here following an engine breakdown at sea which forced the Canadian freighter Dundas into Bermuda for repairs.

D. M. Wathen of Saint John, N.B., general manager of the Kent Line, accompanied the relief ship Galloway Kent to the tiny harbor of St. George's to superintend transfer of the cargo of salted codfish, bound for Brazil.

At the same time he took a look into the shipping situation with the idea of extending service to the colony.

"I have been making inquiries with a view to perhaps starting a shipping line between the two places," he said here. "The chief difficulty would be to find enough Bermuda cargo to take back to Canada. At one time we used to see quite a lot of Bermudian products in Canada but there are few available now."

It was reported recently that the Quebec government and Bermuda might soon start discussions on the possibility of exporting fish from Quebec in return for produce such as tomatoes, onions, bananas and lily bulbs.

Modern Etiquette
By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Is it proper to "talk shop" when one is out in society?

A. Not unless someone has asked you a question pertaining to your work. Your work may be very interesting to you, and even to your friends, but to talk it continually is in poor taste.

Q. What is indicated when a girl refuses the invitations of a young man without a reasonable excuse?

A. It indicates but one thing—that it is obvious she does not wish to develop the friendship.

Q. If someone starts to tell you a joke you have already heard, should you stop him?

A. No.

RECEIPT NO GOOD

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)— A local firm sued to collect $519 for building materials supplied to a Windsor man, although the latter had a receipt. Awarding judgement to the company, Judge A. J. Gordon said he was satisfied the company had sent out an invoice marked "paid" by mistake.
