HORSE-SHOE THROWING IN CANADA REVIVED

Teams Will Compete for Dominion Championship Cup at Royal Winter Fair

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Years ago, when the Canadian pioneers cleared the land and built their homes in the wilds of the Dominion, they had their periods of relaxation. Among some of the forms of amusement of those times one of the greatest was that of horse-shoe-throwing. In the tiny settlements when the hard-work, hard-playing farmers and their families gathered, contests were held, prizes given, verbal battles were waged. Then "barnyard golf" died out, as did so many other sports, and it is only in the past two years that the pastime has shown any signs of revival.

However, horseshoe-heaving is coming back, and coming back very strongly. Numerous clubs have been formed throughout the rural districts and in the smaller cities of Canada, and at last the championship of the Dominion of Canada is to be decided.

The Ontario Athletic Commission will sponsor a meeting of the horse-shoe pitchers at the Royal Winter Fair here in November, and for four days, Nov. 21 to 24 inclusive, provincial, country, city and rural champions will perform with the spinning shoes. The winning team of two men will have possession for one year of a trophy emblematic of the Dominion championship, and gold medals, and silver medals will be awarded to the runners-up.

JUROR DECLARES HE HAS HAD ENOUGH OF CASE IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—(By the Canadian Press).—"We have enough; we are ready," announced a juryman at a recent trial here of a man charged with manslaughter in connection with an automobile accident. The trial had proceeded but a short time when the juror astonished the court by rising to his feet, waving his hand at the judge and in the words quoted intimating that the trial had lasted long enough.

Justice Walsh and the counsel in the case clearly were nonplussed by this unexpected departure from the usual staid attitude of jurors, and there was general amazement in the court room. The situation was rather puzzling, even to the judge, but finally, as the hour was somewhat late, his lordship relieved the tension by declaring the court adjourned until morning. This seemed to please the other 11 jurymen as well as the juror who already had had enough of the trial.

Does It Pay?

to wash at home

Many thousands of women are standing at the family washtubs every Monday morning under the impression that they are saving money by doing their own washing. In the course of their studies in household economy in an eastern university, four of the students decided to make a test of this for themselves.

They visited a home consisting of five persons, the parents and three small children, and actually did the weekly family wash, accomplishing the work complete in three hours, using a $150 electric washing machine.

Being students of economic costs, they were careful to accumulate cost data and this is what the wash cost without any labor charge:

Deterioration of machine	50c
Electric current	10c
Water	05c
Fuel	15c
Soap (actual cost)	10c
Washing Powder	05c
Blueing	02c
	97c

The same washing done at the laundry would cost $1.00

Would you wash all day for three cents? The answer is obvious. Send it to the
