Rebrin trial remanded

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trial of Irene Rebrin's libel suit against the Toronto Telegram was adjourned Monday until February 6 by Mr. Justice T. W. Brown of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

Miss Rebrin, 34-year-old language lecturer at the University of B.C. who is under an order of deportation from Canada, is suing the Toronto newspaper, its publisher John Bassett, and Ottawa correspondent Peter Dempson, for alleged libel in an article published last March 21.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Providence, R.I. (AP)—Tom McNeeley, 202, Arlington, Mass., stopped Jim Wylie, 200½, Philadelphia, (3).

THE WORLD'S LARGEST single piece of fibreglass-moulding, the hull of a 67-foot motor launch ordered by American millionaire Mr. Virgil Browne of Oklahoma, is swung aboard the New York City at Avonmouth, Bristol, England, en route to the U.S.A. The hull, produced by a British firm of laminated glass experts at Portsmouth, England, will be shipped to Boston, Mass., for fitting-out and will be named "Ocean Commander". The cost of the hull was £10,000 sterling: when completed Ocean Commander is expected to cost about seventy thousand pounds sterling.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

You undoubtedly have your own Mr. Heinsite and have to listen to his long analysis of every hand.

One thing you must have noticed—he analyzes only those angles about a hand that suit his own purposes, that make him look good and make his partner look like a dope.

Actually, this fascination with criticism of partner has serious disadvantages, one of which is that it prevents the critic from giving his best mental efforts in the playing of the hand in question.

No sooner had Mr. Heinsite seen the dummy in today's deal than he started yelling about Mr. Muzzy's two heart bid.

Continuing his complaints all the way through the play, he proceeded as follows:

Mr. Heinsite

He won the opening spade lead with the ace and laid down the jack of hearts. When the king appeared on his left he won with dummy's ace.

Now he cashed the queen and ten of hearts and if the suit had split 3-3, he could have won the first 10 tricks.

But Mr. Dale showed out on the third heart lead and Mrs. Keen's nine spot effectively blocked the run of the suit. Now there were only eight tricks available and the contract was down one.

Mr. Heinsite continued his verbal chastisement of his partner.

"Did you ever hear such bidding?" he asked, turning to Mr. Dale for sympathy.

"Muzzy's two heart bid was pretty awful," Mr. Dale admitted. "On the other hand, it wasn't any worse than your play. Certainly you belonged in three no tump and in fact it was ice-cold."

Mr. Heinsite was stunned into silence for a moment. If he hadn't been so engrossed in analyzing the bidding, he probably would have seen the right play for nine tricks.

It wasn't a difficult play. As Mr. Dale pointed out, it consisted merely of permitting his king to win the first heart trick.
