MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

CITY PONDERS DRAINAGE

done his own property improvements with materials that for the most part are discarded wood stave water pipes and hot water tanks, without thought to allignment or gradient to flow.

"This summer, Mr. Hunter of 903 Seventh Avenue East had been advised by myself of this danger of flooding during a heavy rainfall and that this water course should be left open or if he wanted it closed, a pipe of permanent material and of sufficient size be installed. This advice was ignored and no improvements instituted."

MADE NO DIFFERENCE

Mr. Gustafson also said that the new road construction has neither added nor reduced the amount of water in the drainage area.

In his recommendation to the board of works, Mr. Gustafson said:

"As all the owners abutting this drainage area have from time to time on their own initiative and without permission or engineering advice from the city of Prince Rupert, closed this water course crossing their individual properties, this water course be opened throughout its entire length, from Hays Cove Avenue to Basil Street and if these property owners wish their respective properties closed in, the city perform the work of trenching, installation of proper size pipes of permanent materials with examination and clean out chambers in accordance with proper drainage construction methods and the costs of such a project to be subject to the policies as set forth by council's decision in such matters."

The mayor, aldermen, clerk-comptroller and works superintendent then got down to trying to establish a policy. Clerk-Comptroller R. W. Long, had already received replies from three municipalities on closing of natural waterways and whether the municipality shared or assumed the cost.

DON'T SHARE COST

Penticton and North Vancouver definitely stated "no" while Port Alberni replied that in some cases it shared up to a maximum of one-third of the cost.

Facts brought out in the discussion were: that according to the Municipal Act it is unlawful to block or change a natural waterway; that the property owners had bought their properties in the full knowledge that there was a natural water course there; that similar situations existed all over Prince Rupert; that there were many sections in the city affected by poor drainage and that trouble was caused mainly by natural water courses being closed off or blocked.

In order to carry out Ald. Youngs' suggestion that a new ditch be installed from Basil Street to the ditch on Seventh Avenue East, it would be necessary to go through several "high points" and therefore the ditch would be from three to four feet deep, the works superintendent said.

Council will await a report from Mr. Long and Mr. Gustafson on what the city's policy will be before any further action is taken "or," as one alderman put it "we'll be getting requests from all over the city."
