Stage star weds engineer

LONDON (AP)—Yama Saki, 21-year-old Hawaiian - Japanese star of the musical "Flower Drum Song," took time off from the show today to marry a young Canadian engineer.

She got permission to miss the matinee performance for the wedding reception and then prepared to go back on stage tonight—and every other night until the show closes.

Yama Saki tripped daintily into Brompton Oratory Roman Catholic Church in Kensington in a ballerina-length white dress for marriage to Joseph Coyle, 26, of Montreal. She carried a bouquet of orchids sent to her by her mother in Hawaii.

There will be no honeymoon.

Coyle got leave of absence from his job to come to London for the wedding. He has to return to Canada January 2, leaving his bride here to finish the "Flower Drum Song" season. When it closes, possibly in the spring, Yama Saki will rejoin her husband in Montreal.

EMIGRATION OVERSEAS

About 700,000 Germans emigrated overseas in 1946-59—including 350,000 to the United States and 200,000 to Canada.

Militant strikers disrupt Brussels in wild attacks

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — A crowd of 20,000 militant strikers today marched through Brussels smashing windows in another day of mass demonstrations against the government austerity plans.

The new demonstrations were launched as King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola cut short their Spanish honeymoon after two weeks and headed back to this strike-torn nation.

The strikers, joined by thouands of supporters from the provinces, were whipped up by socialist labor leaders outside the party headquarters in a mass rally before their march.

A manifesto was handed out to be presented to Premier Gaston Eyskens protesting "police measures" taken against the strikers during recent demonstrations.

Similar outbreaks and demonstrations also erupted today in other major cities.

CLASH WITH POLICE

The Brussels strikers, shoulder to shoulder across the whole width of the capital's main boulevards, were turned away from the Parliament buildings and the royal palace by riot police.

They smashed the windows of banks and the offices of the Flemish Catholic newspaper Het Volk.

Police anti-riot squads mobilized in the capital, armed with tear gas, truncheons, pistols and automatic weapons to meet the challenge that has divided the country and deepened the split in the labor movement between the 700,000-member socialist-led General Workers Federation and the 800,000-member Social Christian Catholic Trade Unions.
