Warden Voices Criticism Of Canada's Penal Program

VICTORIA (—Sharp criticism of Canada's penal program was voiced by warden Hugh Christie of Oakalla prison in an address here.

"It is a tragic failure in effect and expense," he said. Maintenance of each prisoner costs $25,000 a year, which means that 1,000 prisoners in Oakalla represents a $25,000,000 potential indebtedness to British Columbia.

"Across Canada there are 100,000 prison admissions each year, or a potential indebtedness of $2,500,000,000," he said.

"But the most tragic failure is the fact that almost 70 per cent of prisoners in provincial jails and more than 70 per cent of inmates of federal penitentiaries come back.

"Compare this with the 80 to 90 per cent of the cases which are successful the first time we treat them in Bortal homes and the prison farm.

"Nobody is born delinquent. It is not hereditary. There is not a person living who is delinquent, who cannot be cured if he is given attention enough.

"Because it is caused, we can understand and treat it. It happens as a result of society's lack of attention to a particular problem."

Warden Christie said the ideal correctional system should comprise eight features.

There should be a program developed to ensure that people do not become delinquent; a probation and parole service supplemented by "more private agencies than ever before," and a prison program based on "planned treatment for every person."

Mr. Christie said there should be religious training which does not try to prove that one religion is better than another and a work plan should be set up which would do away with the idea that it's non-union.

Slide Kills One, Injures Two

RUTH Nev. (AP)—Millions of tons of earth tumbled into the bottom of Kennecott Copper Company's huge open pit mine here Saturday, killing one worker and injuring two others.

The massive slide started at the rim of the pit and plunged more than 500 feet to the bottom, completely covering a large truck and other equipment. The two workmen were injured slightly.
