. . . . ITEMS OF . . . . SPORT!

There is one golden smile less on the streets of Chicago. The only means of identification now are blue papers bulging out of every pocket of the heavyweight champion's clothes.

Just because the P.N.A. is not in the same swim with the B.C. Swimming Association the said B.C.S.A. objects to the P.N.A. entering the B.C. swim until such time as it becomes affiliated with swims on this side of the border.

They're still harping on lacrosse down in Toronto. The Telegram rises to remark that no one heard the Cornwall team returning from New Westminster, and desires to know if the awful blow struck Joe Lally dumb.

American football must be changing this season. It is now going on to the third week of rugby and there have only been a couple of deaths reported, and one of these came from Eastern Canada. The average for this time in other seasons should give at least half a dozen fatalities. What's the matter with the game?

Drafts and sales of players have made big inroads into the line-up which did such faithful service during 1912, and there will be need of much building up in Vancouver. Of the old pitchers, Byram and Schmutz will be the nucleus around which a new staff of slabsters will be built. Both are good enough for any team in this company, and Brown has an eye on a kid down in Portland who he believes will be a world beater when he is properly developed.

With Sepulveda, the classiest young catcher of the Northwestern League last year, gone to Frisco, the manager will have need of fortifying himself with a good man to help out Carl Lewis, and he believes he has him in Pembroke, who was tried out last spring and sent to a Washington state club for further seasoning. Earl Sheeley, the youngster who came from Spokane and broke his leg in his second game, necessitating a lay off all season, was kept on the Beaver pay roll and is to be given a tryout at first. Augustus, also one of last year's flock, turned loose when the weeding out process was accomplished, will be tried again.

VANCOUVER FANS EAGER TO HAVE FAVORITE FIGHT JOE

TERMINAL CITY FIGHTER'S SUPPORTERS THINK JOE BAYLEY SHOULD FIGHT BARREAU AT ONCE—BAYLEY HAS WORKED FORHIS CHANCE

Some day in the near future, if everything goes as those behind the game in British Columbia desire, a fight will be staged in the province that will arouse more interest than any contest that has ever been put on in this part of the country. That is a meeting between Joe Bayley, representing Victoria, and Ernie Barrieau, representing Vancouver.

Everything is working toward this grand climax. Only a year or so ago professional boxing was dead in British Columbia. The province did not boast a single boxer with any kind of a reputation. Then Joe Bayley appeared, cut a wide swath, beating every boy he was matched with, and, by dint of hard work, established himself in the position he now holds.

He went out unheralded, and returned with the Canadian championship. Needless to say, he became a popular idol. Seeing that they were passing up something worth while in the line of athletic championships, Vancouver sportsmen decided to get a fistic hero of their own. They picked on Barrieau as the most worthy object of their regard, extolled him to the skies through the press, and then, in all innocence, demanded a match with Bayley.

Their plans in that regard knocked on the head, they set about on the only rational course to gain their end, and sent Barrieau out to fight his way into favor. If Barrieau is schooled along carefully and his ability not put to too hard a test in his present state of raw development, a match between him and Bayley will before very long be reasonable. An upset in the shape of defeat of Bayley might, of course, occur, but that isn't likely, as Joe has shown himself to be somewhat above the class of fighters he is being pitted against.

If another permit is given for a boxing match either in Vancouver or Victoria, the contestants will almost certainly be Bayley and Barrieau. It is just possible that a meeting of the two may be arranged in the prairie provinces, but it would be a shame to waste it in that part of the country. The match would be a big card there, but what would is be in British Columbia? There would be no accommodating the crowd that would want to see the rivalry between the island and the mainland in this regard settled once and for all.

Exciting Chase.

The City of Spokane touched port yesterday about noon on her way to Skagway, carrying a light passenger list. A young lady en route to Whitehorse, Y. T., to join the nursing staff of the hospital at that place, had a close call to being stranded in Prince Rupert. The Spokane was well on her way to the entrance of the harbor when she came flying at top speed down to the wharf to find herself decidedly "left." Many passengers, women particularly, seem to pay no heed to information furnished by the ships' officers as to how long they will have ashore. Fortunately for the young lady, a launch passed the dock at that moment, the occupants of which very kindly pulled in and took her aboard and chased up the Spokane at top speed, the latter slowing down to allow her to regain the ship.
