DISTINGUISHED CAPTAIN COMING

Commander of H. M. S. Colombo Won His V. C. In Unique Engagement

Capt. C. C. Dobson, V. C., D. S. O., in command of the British light cruiser H. M. S. Colombo, which will spend several days at Prince Rupert at the end of this month, will be one of the most distinguished naval visitors this port has ever entertained.

Capt. Dobson served with great distinction with the Royal Navy in the Great War and won his V. C. in the Baltic Sea toward the end of the conflict as a result of a courageous exploit for such as which Royal Navy officers have long been renowned though his was a most outstanding one. It was near Riga that Capt. Dobson, then a commander of a small coastal motor patrol vessel with torpedo equipment encountered three Russian battleships and, in the ensuing engagement, unique in the annals of the history of the navy, sank two of them and sent the third scurrying to cover in a crippled condition.

In 1921 Capt. Dobson was elevated to his present rank and assumed command on the Colombo since that vessel's last visit here two years ago.
