Jobless up for May report

VICTORIA (CP)—May and June were bleak months for labor in B.C.

The monthly bulletin prepared by the B.C. Trade and Commerce department said 1,000 more people were out of work than the previous month.

The total unemployed June 18 was 42,000, and the total work force of 532,000 was 16,000 less than in June 18, 1959.

But the employed shared an income 5.1 per cent higher than April, 1959, bringing the four-month total to 6.2 per cent above the same period one year ago.

New York (AP)—Emile Griffith, 150, New York, outpointed Jorge Fernandez, 148½, Argentina (10).

B.C. ROUNDUP

Rainless spell

VERNON (CP)—Vernon has gone 23 days without rain. Last drop to descend on the city was recorded July 1, when the total precipitation was .15 inches. In July 1958 the total rainfall was .25 inches, and in 1959 .55 inches.

Priest killed in crash

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Rev. Joseph Bogues, 36, a Roman Catholic priest here, was killed Monday when a car he was driving hit a utility pole near 100-Mile House, 200 miles south of here, bursting into flames.

Father Bogues, alone in the car was returning from a trip to Vancouver. He was in charge of construction of a new Roman Catholic high school and junior college being built here.

Fliers plane obsolete

KELOWNA (CP)— Conservative leader Deane Finlayson says the provincial government was "directly to blame" for the death last week of a pilot whose water-bomber crashed near Kelowna.

Finlayson said here Monday night that the pilot, fighting a fire in an Avenger aircraft, was flying a plane of the type the Conservative leader himself flew during the Second World War. Finlayson said the plane was obsolete and should have been scrapped long ago. He charged the provincial government should obtain more modern planes to fight forest fires.

He again criticized the government because firefighters did not have enough equipment to fight forest fires.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mrs. Keen's hand looks a little strong for just a single raise and yet her bid was correct. Her queen of hearts could hardly be counted as two points after the two-heart overcall on her right. She was by no means certain that her side could make a game. If she bid three diamonds over two hearts, her partner would be forced to bid again, even on an absolute minimum.

If partner's rebid was three spades, Mrs. Keen would either have to bid four spades, for which she did not have the necessary values, or she would have to pass. If she passed, her partner would never know that she held adequate spade support.

So the single raise in spades, made freely after the heart overcall, was just about right. It announced sound spade support and left partner the option of passing if she had no additional values over a minimum opening bid.

Miss Brash

Mr. Dale led the king of hearts and noted his partner's play of the discouraging deuce. He correctly decided that a shift to some other suit was in order — before Miss Brash could use dummy's long diamond suit for discarding purposes.

Obviously the most promising shift was to clubs. But it had to be exactly the right club. If you are going to play your partner for the ace of a suit in a situation like this, you can make a play whose success does not depend on his having the ten, too.

Mr. Dale made that play. At trick two he led the jack of clubs. Now if Miss Brash did not cover the jack with dummy's queen, the jack would win and the defenders would then proceed to cash the king and the ace of the suit.

Actually she did cover, but the result was the same. Mr. Abel won with the ace and returned a club through Miss Brash's ten-eight up to his partner's king-nine. Thus the defenders won three clubs and a heart for a one-trick set. No other club lead at trick two would have accomplished this excellent result.
