Profit-Sharing Proposal Distorted Says Reuther

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther says spokesmen for the automobile industry's Big Three either don't understand his profit sharing and customer-rebate proposals, or they tried wilfully to distort them.

The United Auto Workers chief referred to his union's 1958 contract demands, which were made public Monday and promptly criticized sharply in statements from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler Corp.

In a letter Tuesday to GM President Harlow H. Curtice, with leaders of the other two companies marked in for copies, Reuther said his plan was "based upon the right of workers and consumers to share in the fruits of advanced technology."

"SUBTERFUGE"

The letter was made public by Reuther's office several hours after another auto executive, George Romney, president of American Motors, joined the verbal attack. Romney called Reuther's proposal a "subterfuge".

Reuther said copies of his letter to Curtice were sent to L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, and Ernest R. Breech, Ford board chairman both of whom previously, in effect, rejected the UAW proposal.

The UAW president accused General Motors of opposing profit sharing for hourly-rated workers while maintaining a bonus plan based on dividing excess profits for top executives.

Reuther estimated that Curtice and other executives received a total of $635,000,000 in the 10 years between 1947 and 1956 under that plan.

He questioned whether "public confidence can best be built by a small group of General Motors executives sharing in the excess profits of the corporation while denying workers and consumers their rightful share."

Romney said: "Reuther's profit-sharing and price-rebate bludgeon apparently was devised to silence growing criticism of chain-reacting pattern bargaining. This is subterfuge."
