GOOD MEN WANTED.

The future of Prince Rupert is with the citizens. Now in the initial stages of the community is when the bright, brainy men of business must be placed in charge of the affairs and lay the permanent foundation for a great city. No business man or manufacturer would care to come into a city under the incumbency of a man who, while dealing with a concern which may be of material benefit to the city, at the same time practically advises the electors against the company before proposals are made or negotiations are entered into at all.

Common sense would dictate that no scheme should be either commended or condemned before it has been properly laid out, and such actions can only have one effect and that is to hurt and retard the city where the mayor is so unjust as to endeavor to prejudice the minds of the electors before either the Council or the citizens have had a chance to review the complete proposals of the concern wishing to do business with the city. It is such matters as this which demand the public officers to be business men of the greatest ability. No man would hire for his own personal business a man who would make blunders, and so much more should he insist that the men in charge of the public affairs are the most capable that can be secured.

Prince Rupert is attracting the attention of the entire world at the present time and especially in financial circles are the advantages offered by this city being studied keenly. What the city needs and must have is industries; great works employing hundreds of men, and to get the establishment here of such concerns must be the work of the Council and Board of Trade.

When a manufacturer thinks of investing in a place his first question is: "Who and what are your councilmen?" It is a very natural question and one that is of vital importance not only to the great manufacturer but to the man who is considering the investment of even a few dollars in a lot.

THE NAVAL QUESTION

An exuberant local Tory more noted for his enthusiasm than his general knowledge of political facts, speaks of the splendid enthusiasm with which Mr. Borden's naval programme has been received in all parts of Canada. Canadians do not know very much about the premier's naval programme as yet, but the knowledge that has been vouchsafed in ministerial circles has resulted in the resignation of one member of Mr. Borden's cabinet, and may be followed by another retirement at least. So much for the enthusiasm with which the new naval policy has been hailed.—Victoria Times.

BEAUTIFUL NEW COUNTRY FOR THE TOURIST AND SPORTSMAN

EXCELLENT COUNTRY IN ALBERTA BEING OPENED UP BY BUILDING OF THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC—RICH WITH BIG GAME AND FULL OF BEAUTIFUL SCENERY.

The rapid linking together of the Grand Trunk Pacific to form a new transcontinental highway across Central Canada opens another hinterland for the tourist. It makes easy of access a vast new section of the Rockies in Central Alberta and the Sunset Province, and of all this area it is doubtful if there is a more interesting and inviting region than that embraced by the upper watershed of the Athabaska River and its several southern tributaries. The natural starting point for tourists intending to visit any of this country is Fitzhugh, a picturesquely situated frontier town in Jasper Park, some two hundred and fifty miles west of Edmonton.

How little of this region has been actually trodden by white men is evidenced by the fact that only four short summers ago the largest sheet of water on the entire east slope of the Rockies was found in its recesses. This beautiful mountain lake, some seventeen miles in length and lying between green wooded slopes, forms a broad expansion of the Maligne River, and resembles a Scotch tarn in its far melting vistas of water and crag. This lake is some thirty miles southeast of Fitzhugh, and twenty miles farther south is another lake where the trout fishing is excellent. The latter body of water forms the chief source of the Brazeau River. To the west of it, in Alpine grandeur, lies the region of wild, lofty peaks, dominated by Mount Alberta, where enormous glaciers give birth to the Athabaska and North Saskatchewan Rivers.

This region is also a noted game country. It lies far enough north to have escaped in part during recent years the far searching reach of the Stoney Indian; bears of all kind are still fairly numerous, the sheep, and more especially the goat, hunting is good, while scattered moose, deer and even elk may be occasionally seen.

Meantime, the crying need of the district, for tourist and fire ranger alike, is the need for more and better trails. Hence, to provide a good and adequate system of trails will be the first and constant effort of the Dominion forestry branch in carrying out its recently assumed duty of administering this region, so as to protect its forests from fire and make every auxiliary resource contribute its part to the public welfare. During the present season the rangers in charge made a good start on this work, and next year it will be again pushed with vigor. Already, between Laggan or Morley, on the C. P. R., and Fitzhugh an old through trail is in existence, a trail which promises to be a very popular Alpine tourist route when improved. It traverses the Brazeau, Clearwater and Bow River forests and everywhere its improvement will be promptly undertaken by the forestry branch.

The scenery in this upper Athabaska country is varied and beautiful in its color effects, and especially so in early autumn. From the deep green carpet of pine and spruce on the valley floor the eye passes to intermingled belts of blushing gold poplar and light green lodgepole, fringed above to timber line by sombre masses of Alpine fir. Higher still the warm reds and ochres of disintegrating ferruginous rocks form a Joseph's coat of many colors, while over all looms the background of summits wrapped in their eternal snows.

Avoid These

Automobile coming down the road with a 12-year-old kid at the wheel.

Barbed wire fences. Go around if it's a mile.

Man who wants to tell you how to run your business. Ten to one he can't run his own.

Man who wants to give you something for nothing. There must be something the matter with it.

Matron who has daughter who is taking singing lessons.

Gold mantle clocks if you want to catch the train.

Wedding cigars. The bridegroom generally buys them last when he is half out of silver.

Kind faced old gentleman with mutton chop whiskers, plug hat and book under his arm.

Mince pie for breakfast.

Home-made shirts.

Folding chairs at funerals.
